Victoria Woman One Of Three In Princeton Highway Tragedy

CHILLIWACK—Two women, including a Victorian, and one man were killed Thursday night in a car accident on the newly-opened Hope-Princeton Highway. Two other Victorians were badly injured.

Dead are: Miss Jane Dorothea Hay, 664 Dallas Road, Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leggett, 227 19th Avenue West, Vancouver.

Injured are the owner of the car, C. J. McDowell, and his wife, 10 Olympia Avenue, Victoria. He is the well-known plumbing and heating contractor.

Condition of the McDowells in Chilliwack Hospital is described by B.C. Provincial Police as "serious, but not critical."

An inquest was to be held at Chilliwack today. Police said the car careened off the highway and plunged down a deep ravine four and a half miles east of Hope on the new highway about 7 in the evening.

The Canadian Press account on the accident said that Mr. and Mrs. McDowell were riding in the back seat.

Librarian At High School

Miss Hay was 51 years old. She received her B.A. from McGill University and for many years was secretary of the Victoria branch of the McGill Graduates' Society. She was interested in the Alpine Club here.

Miss Hay joined the staff of the Victoria High School as social studies teacher in September, 1925. Prior to that she taught at Sir James Douglas School for two years and was principal of a school at Sidney for a year and a half.

At the High School Miss Hay taught social studies for a short while and then became librarian, a position she held until last year.

She is described as being "soft-spoken and well-liked by the students." She is survived by a brother, Dr. Cecil Hay, Port Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Leggett are survivors.

Canada, Big Five Atomic Experts Resume Hush Talks

LAKE SUCCESS (BUP)—Atomic experts of the Big Five powers and Canada resumed their secret discussions on world nuclear control today—discussions which so far have been fruitless.

The atomic control issue was slated to come before the special political committee of the U.N. General Assembly early next week. Debate was postponed on the report when the Big Five and Canada told the committee they had made "no progress."

The political committee, debating membership in the U.N., had several resolutions dealing the voting stage, and it was not expected the atomic discussion would be resumed until next Monday.

Told Of Tragedy, Bolivian Pilot Wills Own Death

WASHINGTON (UP)—Eric Rios Bridoux has been told he killed 55 persons in Tuesday's air disaster here and he no longer wants to live, the Bolivian pilot's physicians said today.

The doctor, who asked that his name be withheld, said the shocking knowledge produced a relapse which nearly caused the stricken flier's death late Wednesday night.

Although his body is still fighting on, rallying from the relapse, the 28-year-old pilot now seems to prefer death to recovery, the physician said.

European Council Ministers Meet; Consider Warning

PARIS (UP)—Twelve foreign ministers of the Council of Europe met today to discuss Economic Co-operation Administration Paul G. Hoffman's warning that Europe must unite economically or be lost in a new Dark Age.

Hoffman told the Council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation Wednesday night that there was no magic in words or resolutions but only in deeds.

Hoffman's warning was issued after the council had adopted a six-point resolution aimed at freer intra-European trade and a cautious examination of steps leading toward European economic unity.

If western Europe fails to act, Hoffman said, "I do not think I am exaggerating when I say that we may have a new kind of Dark Age in the world."

The 12 foreign ministers, who form the executive body of the Council of Europe, will meet two days in the French Foreign Office.

All Western Canada Basks In Benign Indian Summer

By Canadian Press

The winter woollies are back in mountaineers today on the prairies, but out-of-door residents are wary of the weather's whimsy.

Wednesday old man winter did an abrupt about face, lifting his hoary hand from Alberta and Saskatchewan points and beating a hasty retreat in the face of warm Pacific air.

The reason is a high-pressure area in British Columbia, holding back cool air from the north and allowing warm Pacific air to flow over central Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The weatherman says Indian summer is here for the next few days.

So far at least seven record high temperatures for Nov. 2 have been established. Some of them in areas where weather statistics reach back to 1903.

High were established at Edmonton (71), Calgary (68), Saskatoon (63), Vancouver (62), Victoria (66), Prince Rupert (68) and Abbotsford, B.C. (69).

Previous highs, with dates bracketed, were: Edmonton 68.5 (1890), Calgary 62 (1930), Saskatoon 55 (1930), Vancouver 60 (1941), Victoria 63 (1901), Prince Rupert 66 (1917), and Abbotsford 65 (1941).

Modern records were believed set at Whistler and Grande Prairie in northern Alberta (72), and at North Battleford, Sask. (65).

Mild weather and sunshine brought voters out in droves to

Revive Reports U.S. May Step Into Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of Governor Henry Schricker of Indiana for a separate coal pact covering that state, Lewis had accepted the idea, saying he could submit any tentative offer to his union's policy committee at its meeting in Chicago Monday.

The Indiana operators discussed the idea and rejected it. Harvey Cartwright, secretary of the Indiana Coal Producers' Association, said: "The issues involved are national in character and cannot be reconciled to district negotiations."

He indicated that unless there is some progress toward settling the 46-day coal strike the government will invite Lewis and operators to Washington negotiations, probably some time next week.

Failure of such federal talks would put the coal problem up to President Truman. Up to now Truman has held that neither the coal nor the steel strike has reached the national emergency stage.

The Indiana operators Wednesday night turned down a proposal

No Nobel Prize In Literature As Four Authors Deadlocked

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Swedish Academy decided today to shelve this year's Nobel Prize for literature because it was hopelessly deadlocked over four candidates, including Winston Churchill and the Italian philosopher, Benedetto Croce.

The tug-of-war on the prize decision was reported to have been greater than at any time during the half-century in which the 18-member academy has been making the awards.

(Available records do not show any book published during the last three years by the Italian philosopher. Churchill's latest books are "The Gathering Storm" and "Their Finest Hour," first two of a planned series of four volumes of his war memoirs.)

The decision was taken at a brief session this afternoon. It was announced that, as no candidate had been able to obtain the absolute majority necessary, the award would be withheld until 1950.

Bail For Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States court of appeals here ruled today that the 11 top American Communists convicted of conspiracy may be released on bail pending appeal of their case. The court ruled that seven could be released in $20,000 bail each and four in $30,000 bail apiece. The government originally had asked that their total bail be set at $1,000,000.

Fear Toll Of Dead May Rise As Ruins Of Block Searched

CHICAGO (UP)—A flash fire raced through a three-story apartment building early today and killed five persons, including three children.

At least 25 of the building's 250 Negro residents were injured or suffered burns. Many leaped from windows as flames roared around them.

Firemen feared the toll of dead would rise when they could complete their search through the rooms.

The two adult victims were unidentified women. Two of the children were identified as Joyce Jones, 6, and Alfonso Hampton, 8. The fire broke out beneath a radiator in a first-floor apartment and flashed through the building with "almost unbelievable speed," witnesses said.

Within seconds, it trapped many residents in their rooms, forcing them to leap from upper windows or slide down ropes of sheets.

Firemen rescued about 50 by carrying or escorting them down ladders.

Many crowded into sun parlors at the front of the building and stood there, screaming with the flames shooting up behind them as firemen urged them to leap into nets or remain calm until ladders could be raised.

The fire burned fiercely for 90 minutes before it was brought under control. Every ambulance in the vicinity was called to the scene to help in removing the injured to Provident Hospital.

Firemen said the apartment was once a fashionable building but that its rooms had been cut up into many smaller kitchenette apartments "which were crowded with kids."

Deputy Fire Commissioner Anthony J. Mullane estimated damage to the building at $60,000.

Central Philippine Storm Death Toll Now Set At 57

MANILA (UP)—The Philippine Red Cross today reported 57 persons killed in the tropical storm which swept across the central Philippines Wednesday. The Red Cross said 31 deaths occurred when 170 houses were swept away in Negros Oriental Province.

Earlier reports said 15 persons were killed on Cebu Island, 12 others in Negros Occidental Province, one in Iloilo City and one in Mindano Island.

Some estimates of the damage ranged as high as $50,000,000.

Hardest hit among the provinces were Cebu, Occidental Negros and Iloilo. But the storm also hit hard parts of Surigao, Leyte, Bohol and Palawan.

Numerous vessels, mostly small coastal craft, were sunk or damaged.

The Red Cross said 12,000 homeless persons needed relief.

Barbara's Home Rink Destroyed By Fire With $250,000 Loss

OTTAWA (CP)—The Minto Skating Club, Barbara Ann Scott's home rink, was destroyed by fire early today. Loss is estimated at $250,000. The club's 1949-50 season was to have been officially opened today.

The spectacular two-alarm blaze broke out around 3:30 a.m., forcing caretaker William Ayres, his wife and four children to flee barefooted and clad only in night attire.

Located on Waller Street in the Sandy Hill section of the city, the 46-year-old structure was enveloped in flames in a matter of minutes.

Cause of the blaze has not yet been established.

Valuable trophies and skating mementos, many of them brought to the capital by the skating queen, Barbara Ann Scott, were lost in the blaze. Col. E. J. Underwood, president of the club, also said a heavy loss was suffered in skates and other equipment which members had stored at the club.

Officials said all the records of the Canadian Figure Skating Association were lost in the fire.

Living Cost Index May Show Effect Of Dollar Devaluation

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians may learn tomorrow what devaluation is doing to living costs. Devaluation, which swept almost all parts of the world last month, is expected to show some of its impact in September's cost-of-living index, to be issued by the Bureau of Statistics.

The index, calculated on the basis that 1935-39 equals 100, now stands at 162.3, after a half-point drop in August, first decline in a continuous half-year upward climb.

Many of the factors that make up the index are easily influenced by currency cuts. These include such things as food, clothing, coal, gasoline and transportation costs.

Since devaluation came about only in the second last week of September, the country will have only a partial view of what it did to the index.

October's index, due early in December, will be the first full month in which devaluation has been at work.

The 10 per cent cut in Canada's dollar may have a varied effect on the food sub-index—most important part of the price barometer.

Lower food costs showed down the index last month. But with devaluation, Canadians found themselves paying more for such items as fresh fruits and vegetables imported from the United States.

Traffic Tangle Follows Opening Of New Highway

Part of the crowd of an estimated 5,000 which Wednesday afternoon attended the official opening of the Hope-Princeton Highway at Allison Pass. Cars were lined up for miles on either side of the gate at which the ceremony was performed and more than two hours were needed to untangle the jam. One car plunged off the new highway, carrying Miss Dorothea Hay, well-known former Victoria High School librarian, and two other persons to their deaths. High School Librarian Killed In Car Crash

It was reported late today that the two Victoria people injured in Wednesday night's fatal accident on the Hope-Princeton Highway—in which Miss Jane Dorothea Hay, 51, of 664 Dallas Road, was killed—are in satisfactory condition at Chilliwack Hospital.

Also killed in the accident were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leggatt, 227 19th Avenue West, Vancouver.

Injured in hospital are C. J. McDowell, Victoria plumbing and heating contractor, and Mrs. McDowell.

Mrs. McDowell was the more seriously injured, sustaining a fractured left arm, severe cuts, bruises and shock. Mr. McDowell is reported to be suffering from bruises and severe shock.

B.C. Provincial Police said that the car they were in careened off the new highway and plunged down a deep ravine. This occurred between 7.15 and 7.30 about four and one-half miles east of Hope.

No other car was involved, police said.

Police said Mr. McDowell was the owner and driver.

Tragedy occurred a few hours after the official opening of the 83-mile stretch by Premier Byron Johnson. The five were returning from the ceremony.

It was the first C. J. McDowell accident to be recorded on the highway following the ceremony at Allison Pass. However, the traffic death toll on the highway has now reached five. Two others were killed last

"The motoring public will observe these signs there will be few accidents on the Hope-Princeton highway," the minister said.

All Western Canada Basks In Benign Indian Summer

Modern records were believed set at Whitecourt and Grande Prairie in northern Alberta (72), and at North Battleford, Sask. (65).

Mild weather and sunshine brought voters out in droves to the civic elections in Regina and Edmonton.

At Lethbridge, where the winter's first blizzard deposited 20 inches of snow two weeks ago, the thermometer said 70. Red Deer in the central part of the province registered 70, and Rocky Mountain House to the west 74.

Meanwhile Manitoba still endured temperatures in the high 20s. The forecast for today predicted a rise to 50.

From The Pas, in central Manitoba, came a warning that it may be a long, hard winter with plenty of snow. Ptarmigan and the great snowy owl, Arctic birds that generally stay in the north until the severest part of winter, have already been seen, even though the Arctic freeze-up has just begun.

Britain, U.S. Selling Planes To Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain and the United States have eased their ban on the sale of commercial planes and aviation equipment to Yugoslavia. The first shipments—limited quantities of gasoline and lubricants, were cleared by the State Department today.

Diplomatic officials, reporting the Anglo-American move just before the fuel and lubricants sale was announced, said it marks the latest step by the West to bolster Marshal Tito in his fight with Moscow and its eastern European allies.

The State and National Defence Departments are reported to have decided on the move as another of the "calculated risks" of the cold war.

OTHERS MAY FOLLOW

The matter was agreed upon with Britain. Then the two countries decided to notify other western governments of their action in the hope they will do the same.

One idea is to clear the way for an "air lift" to Yugoslavia if that rebel against Moscow domination of world communism should be cut off by guerrilla attack from normal transport.

15 Longshoremen At The Dalles Jailed In Riot Aftermath

PORTLAND (AP)—Fifteen C.I.O. longshoremen, indicted in the Sept. 28 pineapple riot at The Dalles, were in jail today as police sought nine others missed in a night-long round-up.

Thirteen of the men spent the night in the Portland city jail and one, refusing to cross the state line, was jailed in Vancouver, Wash. The fifteenth man was arrested this morning.

State and city police, hampered by faulty addresses or by finding no one at home, continued the hunt for the other nine men named in secret grand jury indictments resulting from waterfront violence that halted unloading of a pineapple barge at The Dalles. They started the round-up at nightfall.

All were held under "fugitive" warrants. Bail was set at $2,500.

None of those arrested was a top officer in the Portland longshore local, which picketed the unloading operation.

Towers, Taggart Report On Trip Outlines Limits

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—British proposals to slash food purchases from Canada on a scale even greater than recent warnings from London had indicated was the subject of discussion by the federal cabinet today.

Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada; Max Mackenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Gordon Taggart, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, returned recently from the United Kingdom, and the gist of their report to the cabinet presented a grim picture.

The three men, who went to England on a combined financial-trade-agricultural policy mission, have told the cabinet Britain is planning her food purchases in terms of the funds she has available, rather than in terms of the units of food which she considers desirable, it was learned.

British policy, the three men learned while in London, is to secure the maximum amount of food for the minimum expenditure of money.

With western European currencies devalued proportionately to the British pounds—to the extent of about 30 per cent—while the Canadian dollar was devalued only 10 per cent, this situation is said to exclude purchases of foodstuffs in Canada where comparable goods can be secured from western European countries.

The countries from which purchases might be made included Denmark, Holland, Norway and Sweden. And the products chiefly affected would be Canadian newsprint, certain lumber products, bacon and eggs; the cabinet was told.

Informed sources here said that cheese was virtually the only commodity Britain was willing to contract for during 1950 without some cut in quantity. Wheat was unaffected, since next year's crop was governed by the international wheat agreement.

Nehru Hints India Would Let Canada Use U.K. Debts

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India today indicated he would be agreeable to the idea of Canada assuming some of the United Kingdom's sterling debt to India.

The Indian leader, speaking at a press conference here, refused to give a flat yes or no on the subject, but said India needed Canadian wheat and "if Canada and the United Kingdom can make some arrangement on this, it would be very convenient."

He added that this was "largely a matter between the United Kingdom and Canada."

Ranging over a variety of subjects, Nehru told the reporters he was "very happy" to hear that the Dutch and Indonesians had reached an agreement at The Hague.

He did not believe the people of Asia were heading toward any particular "ism." Asked whether he thought there was a trend toward socialism, Nehru said, "the people of Asia just want food, clothing and the bare necessities of life. They are not thinking in terms of 'isms'."

Revive Reports U.S. May Step Into Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports the United States government may soon step into the coal strike were revived today with word that Indiana operators have refused separate peace talks with John L. Lewis.

One highly-placed U.S. official, closely watching the steel-coal strike crisis, said: "We can't let Lewis go much beyond this week-end."

He indicated that unless there is some progress toward settling the 46-day coal strike the government will invite Lewis and operators to Washington negotiations, probably some time next week.

Failure of such federal talks would put the coal problem up to President Truman. Up to now Truman has held that neither the coal nor the steel strike has reached the national emergency stage.

The Indiana operators Wednesday night turned down a proposal of Governor Henry Schricker of Indiana for a separate coal pact covering that state. Lewis had accepted the idea, saying he could submit any tentative offer to his union's policy committee at its meeting in Chicago Monday.

The Indiana operators discussed the idea and rejected it. Harvey Cartwright, secretary of the Indiana Coal Producers' Association, said: "The issues involved are national in character and cannot be reconciled to district negotiations."

217 PEMBERTON BUILDING

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

VOICE OF THE PIONEER

ON MONDAY, of this week I sat in for several hours at the hearing, at the Parliament Buildings, of the application of the Aluminum Company of Canada to develop 1,500,000 horsepower in the Nechako area of northern British Columbia.

While I was naturally interested in the many arguments put forward both for and against the application on the economic side, I frankly admit that I was even more interested in certain other phases which were brought before the commission.

For instance, I didn't know until Monday that Canada geese have their nesting place in this part of the province. It is in Tweedsmuir Park that these great birds organize their annual trek southward to warmer climes, and their V-formation flights and loud "Honk! Honk!" are familiar sights and sounds in the fall season.

TRUMPETER SWANS

NOR DID I know that this year there were over 100 Trumpeter swans nesting at Tatsa rapids, until I heard the game commission's brief read. Because much has been written of the threatened extinction of this once common bird, I was intrigued to learn that one-eighth of the whole Trumpeter swan population of Canada was to be found in the Tatsa rapids area.

Reference was also made to the magnificent moose which summer at Ootsa Lake and the lower Tatsa area. Big game hunters would have drooled at the description of wild life which evidently abounds in this last great frontier of the west, as set out in the brief, prosaic though such documents inevitably are.

HUMAN INTEREST

BUT WHAT arrested my attention most of all was the human element. For instance, the sturdy pioneer who told those crowded into that room how he had walked in to the Ootsa Lake district—where he still lives—in 1906. "And I 'toughed' it," he added, recalling how he had walked 150 miles to get into the lake, then had walked another 100 miles, seeking for land suitable on which to homestead.

He had walked out, too. And in 1910 had gone back in again, this time walking 180 miles with a pack on his back, behind a heavily-burdened pack horse.

"I wonder how many of you here know what it means to pioneer in virgin country, in the dense wilds of British Columbia?" he asked. "Then went on to pay tribute to the pioneer women of that north country, who had ridden 150 miles on horseback into Hazelton to have their babies—or else bore them under the most primitive conditions, unattended except for their menfolk."

FIRST WHITE WOMAN

I FOLLOWED, too, the engrossing story told by Mrs. Barteaux, who had also come down from the Nechako area to plead for the "preservation from commercialism" of Tweedsmuir Park.

Claiming to be the first white child to go into that area, she told how she and her father, Tom Blanche, had ridden in from Ashcroft in 1908. Although her father had suffered from a tubercular spine they had made the hazardous and trying journey with only one saddle horse. As she spoke I couldn't help thinking that, despite his condition, she and he had shared more than a normal quota of backbone and "guts."

Their stories brought back memories of the late Louis Le-Bourdais, the former member for the Cariboo, who so often regaled the Provincial Legislature with picturesque tales of the rugged individuals who first went in to that territory.

FENNIMORE COOPER-ISH

I ONLY wish some of our young people could have been at that hearing as those pioneers were talking. It conjured up scenes and incidents reminiscent of Fennimore Cooper at his best, and reminded us of the human endurance and courage which have gone into the early pages of British Columbia's history.

It is well that we should never forget the debt we owe to those settlers who, under their own "steam" and the incentive of their own initiative, not waiting for hand-outs or hitch-hikes, battled their way into the wilderness and endured unbelievable hardships to open up the country.

May their breed never die out!

Veterans Urged To Get Pension Claims In Now

Second World War veterans who are suffering from disabilities that have been caused or aggravated by their service should establish their claim now, urges Stanley H. Okell, assistant district administrator of the island division of D.V.A.

He points out that the longer the veterans wait the more difficult it is to establish their claim. Mr. Okell further encourages ex-servicemen not to wait until the health condition worsens.

He said that the department still has veterans of the First World War making application for pension, claiming their present condition is the result of service, "but don't wait that long," he advises younger veterans.

Letters should be sent to the pensions medical examiner at the Belmont Building office of D.V.A.

India Not Selling Out For Cash, Nehru Says In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Indian Prime Minister, Nehru declared to white nations Wednesday that "no part of Asia is going to be won over by military or financial means."

"We would not sell our souls for financial help," he said in a speech to 1,500 cheering British Columbians at a Civic Auditorium reception. At least half the crowd consisted of East Indians.

He reiterated his oft-made statement that India will not tie to any power bloc in world politics, but will work its own way for world peace.

"It would be a very great mistake for us to join any bloc," he said. "If we tie up with any bloc we lose our individuality and our neighbors no longer will trust us."

Nehru said India stayed in the British Commonwealth because it was a co-operative thing and the "world needs co-operation," but he emphasized that "we would not remain in a commonwealth if it came in the way of our functioning in the way in which we wish to function."

Nehru prayed for the peace of the world in a Sikh temple here Wednesday, soon after his arrival on the next to the last lap of his North American goodwill tour.

A 19-gun salute was fired by field pieces to greet his arrival in a United States air force plane from San Francisco. The international airport was guarded heavily, and only a handful of Indians and others was allowed to greet him there.

U.S. Must Be Import-Minded Acheson Tells Trade Council

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major fight appeared to be shaping up today for the next session of Congress over Truman administration plans to increase imports by several billion dollars worth a year.

In one of the bluntest declarations yet made on the subject by a top United States government official, State Secretary Dean Acheson asserted in New York Wednesday night that "we must become really import-minded."

Acheson told the National Foreign Trade Council that he sees nothing "favorable" in a trade balance by which the United States last year sold $13,000,000,000 worth of goods to the rest of the world and bought only $7,000,000,000 in return.

He declared the $6,000,000,000 gap creates a serious problem for the U.S. in its efforts to establish economic stability among the countries of the western hemisphere and western Europe.

Acheson spoke at the convention of the National Foreign Trade Council. President Truman sent the meeting a message saying the United States as a creditor nation is trying to correct the unbalance in trade.

URGES REVERSAL
Acheson, in effect, demanded that the United States reverse its 30-year-old trade policies under which it has consistently sold more abroad than it has bought. He said he wants the U.S. to begin to allow other countries to pay for what they buy here instead of having the American taxpayer foot the bill in the form of huge loans and gifts.

To achieve this objective he outlined a program based on negotiating new tariff cuts with other countries. At the same time he conceded his proposal will run up against stiff opposition as a result of prospective competition with U.S. products.

Views Differ On Site For Vancouver's Big New Building

VANCOUVER (CP)—The downtown business association is protesting the proposed site for a $6,000,000 auditorium and library building, plans of which were announced Tuesday by Mayor Charles Thompson.

The mayor said a start would likely be made next year on the building in the block bounded by Robson, Howe, Smith and Hornby Streets.

Downtown business association officials say real estate experts advise that the cost of land alone on that site might be $1,075,000. Figures in Tuesday's announcement listed $800,000 as the estimated cost of the land.

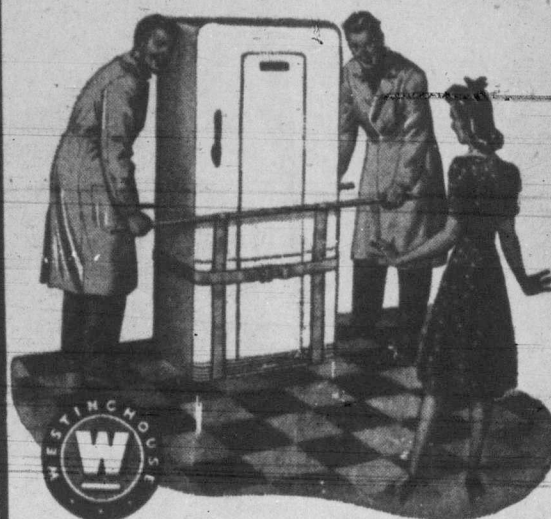

The businessmen want the site of the proposed new civic building to be east of Granville and north of Smith. They contend the site now picked is a future first-class retail block, and that the city would suffer a loss of about $25,000 annually in tax revenue.

Jack Kramer Scores Three-Set Victory

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Professional tennis king Jack Kramer pulled three matches up on his fellow pro, Pancho Gonzales, here Wednesday night in the fifth game of their round-the-world series. The brush-haired pro champ broke Gonzales' serve in the third game to take the first set, 6-4. But the stocky Mexican turned the same trick in the first game of the second set, winning 6-3. Kramer won the play-off set, 6-4, in a point-for-point battle.

European Council Ministers Meet; Consider Warning

PARIS (UP)—Twelve foreign ministers of the Council of Europe met today to discuss Economic Co-operation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman's warning that Europe must unite economically or be lost in a new Dark Age.

Hoffman told the Council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation Wednesday night that there was no magic in words or resolutions but only in deeds.

Hoffman's warning was issued after the council had adopted a six-point resolution aimed at freer intra-European trade and a cautious examination of steps leading toward European economic unity.

If western Europe fails to act, Hoffman said, "I do not think I am exaggerating when I say that we may have a new kind of Dark Age in the world."

The 12 foreign ministers, who form the executive body of the Council of Europe, will meet two days in the French Foreign Office.

Salvation Army Hits Increase In Liquor

WINNIPEG (CP)—The National Officers' Council of the Salvation Army hit out Wednesday night at a meeting here at "increased facilities for drinking and the sharp upward trend of intemperance" in Canada.

The army particularly deplored the "disastrous effects" of cocktail bars on young persons in the eastern provinces.

Commissioner Charles Baugh, Canadian leader of the organization, restated the army's objections to the financing of educational, hospital or other social services from proceeds of lotteries, sweepstakes and other games of chance. The increasing numbers of such games were "further evidence of moral decline."

No Nobel Prize In Literature As Four Authors Deadlocked

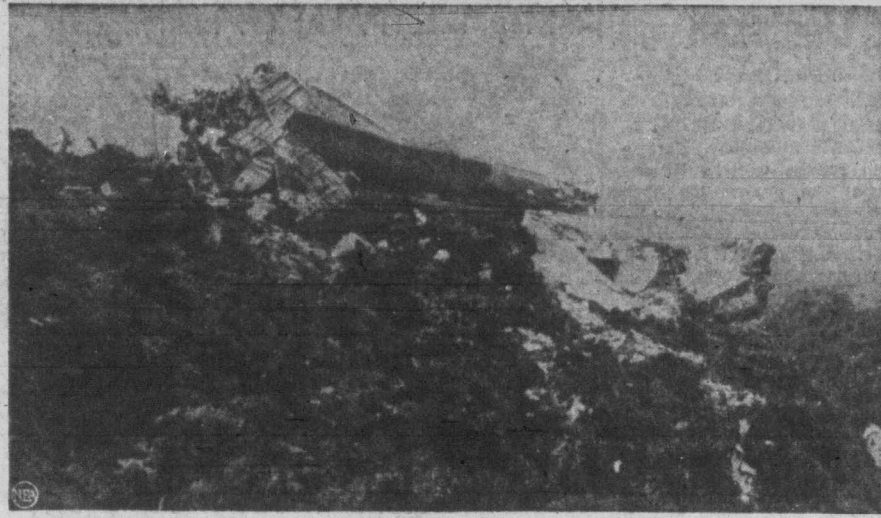

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Swedish Academy decided today to shelve this year's Nobel Prize for literature because it was hopelessly deadlocked over four candidates, including Winston Churchill and the Italian philosopher, Benedetto Croce.

The tug-of-war on the prize decision was reported to have been greater than at any time during the half-century in which the 18-member academy has been making the awards.

(Available records do not show any book published during the last three years by the Italian philosopher, Churchill's latest books are "The Gathering Storm" and "Their Finest Hour," first two of a planned series of four volumes of his war memoirs.)

The decision was taken at a brief session this afternoon. It was announced that, as no candidate had been able to obtain the absolute majority necessary, the award would be withheld until 1950.

There will be an artillery gunnery practice to be carried out from the vicinity of Belmont Station up to 11 tonight and tomorrow from 1.30 to 11. It will be conducted seaward in an arch between Brothie Ledge on the left and Albert Head on the right. Danger radius will be 10,000 yards.

Arena Officials Ask Practical Proof From Hamilton On Making 24-Hour Ice

The next time a new sheet of ice is laid in the Victoria Memorial Arena following a concert, City Hall and arena officials will expect C. T. Hamilton, arena consultant engineer, to supervise the ice-making.

This challenge was accepted at a meeting held in City Hall this morning to discuss failure to lay a usable sheet of ice at the arena 24 hours after it had been removed for the George Formby show.

Mr. Hamilton, who came over from Vancouver for the meeting called by Acting-Mayor Ed. Williams, stated flatly that ice could be produced within 24 hours, while Joe Dutkowski, arena manager, denied that it could.

Attending the meeting this morning were Mayor Percy George, Ald. Williams, chairman of the city's arena committee; F. N. Cabellu, chairman of the arena commission; Dick Field and Bill Bridgwood, members of the commission; Ald. F. G. Mulliner, Ald. H. M. Diggan, Ald. Mrs. Margaret Christie, Ald. C. F. Banfield, Ald. D. D. McTavish, Ald. M. A. Kent, Mr. Dutkowski, Mr. Hamilton, and A. J. Patton, city solicitor.

In opening the meeting, Ald. Williams, chairman, said it had been called as a result of press reports of the last few days on ice-making difficulties at the arena.

"It rather upsets the arena committee... the chairman anyway... to see there is this little trouble again," he said.

"This meeting this morning will, I hope, clear up certain misunderstandings in the minds of the public on the arena... more particularly with respect to the ice surface."

DUTKOWSKI EXPLAINS

He asked Mr. Dutkowski to speak first, saying the arena manager had been more or less responsible for the first reports in the press.

He asked Mr. Dutkowski to outline what he thought was wrong, outside of the construction of the building.

Mr. Dutkowski replied that, if he was to discuss the troubles of management, he did not think there would be time at the meeting.

He spoke specifically of the difficulties of ice-making following the removal of the ice for the George Formby show. He said he had two engineers on duty to see if he could get ice on in time for the scheduled Tuesday night games of the Commercial Hockey League. However, he continued, he finally decided there would not be enough for even one game to be played without getting down to cement.

The only thing he could do, said Mr. Dutkowski, was tell the public, through the press and radio, that the ice would not be ready.

"I didn't have anything to hide," he added. With respect to his statements to the press, he said: "I had to make some explanation. 'If I'm to blame, give me the rap. If it's somebody else give it to them.'"

Ald. Williams interjected: "It is my understanding you did everything in your power to get the ice."

Replied Mr. Dutkowski: "We did more than that." He had, said the arena manager, doubled up on the arena engineers and got in touch with the representative of the ice company which supplied the ice machines.

Ald. Williams wanted to know what the representative had thought regarding laying of new ice within 24 hours, and Mr. Dutkowski replied that he had understood from the representative that he could not get ice before 36 to 48 hours.

"You mean you can't get the ice in less than 48 hours?" asked Ald. Williams. "My impression was that you could have hockey matches tonight and vaudeville tomorrow night."

Both Ald. Kent and Ald. Banfield agreed they had understood the same thing.

ANOTHER UNIT NEEDED

Mayor George asked Mr. Dutkowski for his opinion as to why ice could not be produced in time, and the arena manager replied "You haven't sufficient capacity to make ice in 24 hours. You have sufficient capacity to maintain ice, though."

"Does Mr. Dutkowski maintain if he had more machinery he could make ice?" asked the mayor.

Mr. Dutkowski replied he believed another ice-making unit was needed.

BLAMES EQUIPMENT LACK

Ald. Williams said he felt Mr. Hamilton was the one who should answer that question.

The mayor replied that he wanted to know if Mr. Dutkowski blamed the arena's mechanics or its equipment. "It's perfectly obvious he's blaming the equipment," he added.

Mr. Cabellu interjected: "I want to clear up one point. He was blaming lack of equipment... not the equipment."

Then Mr. Hamilton spoke. He said he had been asked if he could replace the ice within the 24 hours and he had replied he could not if the floor was heated. Some weeks ago, he continued, the question of the Formby show came up and with it the question of heating the arena. He said he had told the officials at the meeting that at that time the only way to heat the arena was through the floor, but if the building was heated they could not get ice in under three days.

He pointed out that the rink floor has six inches of concrete which had to be warmed to break ice for removal and that the concrete had to be cooled again before there could be ice.

He said he had told Mr. Dutkowski that if he wanted ice within 24 hours he could not have the temperature of the floor and the brine up, adding that he had suggested keeping the temperature of the floor at 35 degrees as this would make it easier to revert to ice.

The facts were, he claimed, that the night of the Formby show, the temperature was run up to 48 degrees and maintained until after 10.30 that night. With respect to the melting of the ice, he said, the ice bond had been broken at 10.40 the previous night which showed there was a very efficient system. He claimed a start on reducing the temperature had been made too late. He said the fact there was ice on the floor the next day was proof there was sufficient equipment.

At this point Mr. Hamilton claimed he could put ice back on in 24 hours if the floor had not been heated too high. So far as the failure to make ice in time was concerned, Mr. Hamilton said "The human element was at fault beyond any question."

Ald. Williams asked if Mr. Hamilton definitely could say there was no doubt there could be hockey one night, a concert the next and hockey again the next night.

"Very definitely. If it is properly handled," replied Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. Dutkowski later claimed Mr. Hamilton's temperature figures were wrong and produced mechanically marked charts which he said showed the temperature had not been raised above 41 degrees. He also said brine for freezing ice again had been shot through before 9.30 and not 10.30 as Mr. Hamilton had said.

He also said that on the day following the Formby show there was only one-quarter inch of ice in the hollows while cement was showing all over the arena at 1.30 in the afternoon.

On Wednesday, he added, he had flooded the rink again to get as much ice as possible for the children skating, but had to put chairs on the ice to prevent the children from going through to the cement.

Even Wednesday night, he said, the ice was down to cement in at least 12 places.

As the meeting closed Ald. Williams said "We'll find out which is right and which is wrong."

He said the officials would expect to see Mr. Hamilton back the next time there was a concert to supervise the re-icing of the rink.

Barbara's Home Rink Destroyed By Fire With $250,000 Loss

OTTAWA (CP)—The Minto Skating Club, Barbara Ann Scott's home rink, was destroyed by fire early today. Loss is estimated at $250,000. The club's 1949-50 season was to have been officially opened today.

The spectacular two-alarm blaze broke out around 3.39 a.m., forcing caretaker William Ayres, his wife and four children to flee barefooted and clad only in night attire.

Located on Waller Street in the Sandy Hill section of the city, the 46-year-old structure was enveloped in flames in a matter of minutes.

Cause of the blaze has not yet been established.

Valuable trophies and skating mementos, many of them brought to the capital by the skating queen, Barbara Ann Scott, were lost in the blaze. Col. E. J. Underwood, president of the club, also said a heavy loss was suffered in skates and other equipment which members had stored at the club.

Officials said all the records of the Canadian Figure Skating Association were lost in the fire.

Five Die As Scores Trapped In Chicago Tenement Fire

CHICAGO (UP)—A flash fire raced through a three-story apartment building early today and killed five persons, including three children.

At least 25 of the building's 250 negro residents were injured or suffered burns. Many leaped from windows as flames roared around them.

Firemen feared the toll of dead would rise when they could complete their search through the rooms.

The two adult victims were unidentified women. Two of the children were identified as Joyce Jones, 6, and Alfonso Hampton, 8.

The fire broke out beneath a radiator in a first-floor apartment and flashed through the building with "almost unbelievable speed," witnesses said.

Within seconds, it trapped many residents in their rooms, forcing them to leap from upper windows or slide down ropes of sheets.

Firemen rescued about 50 by carrying or escorting them down ladders.

IN SUN ROOMS

Many crowded into sun parlors at the front of the building and stood there, screaming with the flames shooting up behind them as firemen urged them to leap into nets or remain calm until ladders could be raised.

The lawn in front of the building was dotted with persons lying hurt from injuries suffered when they jumped.

The fire burned fiercely for 90 minutes before it was brought under control. Every ambulance in the vicinity was called to the scene to help in removing the injured to Provident Hospital.

Firemen said the apartment was once a fashionable building but that its rooms had been cut up into many smaller kitchenette apartments "which were crowded with kids."

Deputy Fire Commissioner Anthony J. Mullaney estimated damage to the building at $60,000.

HAD ITS TRIAL

But Murray insisted that "U.E.W. has been given its trial."

The U.E.W. delegates bolted the convention Tuesday.

Murray said "they ran like skulking cowards and after they did run, they left these apostles of hate behind to defend them."

The convention also amended the C.I.O. constitution to bar Communists and party line followers from holding top office in the C.I.O. and to authorize the executive board to throw out any union under Communist domination.

Suit For Damages

VANCOUVER (CP)—A writ has been issued in the B.C. Supreme Court here to Composers', Authors' and Publishers' Association of Canada Ltd. claiming damages from Walker Nixon Amusements Ltd. of Victoria.

It alleges the Victoria firm performed, without authorization, two copyrighted songs in its Fox Theatre last June.

The company also asks for an injunction against future use of the songs.

B.C. AND THE E. & N.

UNTIL DETAILS OF THE JUDGMENT have been received and given full study, it is difficult to determine how far-reaching will be the Privy Council decision in favor of British Columbia on the E. & N. land issue. Certain reservations are noted but not elaborated in The Canadian Press report of the findings of the Law Lords in London. On the surface, however, it would appear that the province has been sustained in its contention that a severance tax may be applied to timber cut on the land in question.

As we understand the case, the government, following completion of the Sloan Commission report, drafted a bill which would have imposed the tax on timber cut and removed from the railway belt. The bill was submitted to the Court of Appeal by way of reference to test its validity. That court found the draft bill in order, but a dissenting judgment permitted an appeal to be carried by the railway company to the Supreme Court of Canada, which reversed the decision of the Court of Appeal. From that point, the case was taken to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, which, by yesterday's judgment, apparently has again found in favor of British Columbia.

What may turn on the quoted sections of the judgment remains speculative. It seems scarcely conceivable that the entire issue of the right to the land, exemption from taxation on it and allied matters may be re-opened. On the other hand, the remark of Lord Greene relative to the absence of a direct contract between the province and the E. & N. suggests a variety of interesting possibilities. His Lordship has been quoted to the effect that "if businessmen had desired to have a binding contractual promise of the kind suggested . . . they would have obtained a written contract to the effect and not left it to be merely inferred." The context of that remark will be studied with considerable interest when the full text of the judgment reaches Victoria.

COFFEE COUNTER ECONOMICS

BY COINCIDENCE, NEWS ITEMS appeared in adjoining columns of this paper yesterday reporting respectively an increase in British Columbia's retail sales and the results that may be expected from the rise in the price of coffee. They merit attention because at one time retail sales were taken as one of the most conclusive pieces of evidence that could be found to indicate the solvency of our people. The totals are still significant indices. But as the adjoining story on coffee indicated, they should be viewed in a slightly more conservative light now than was the custom a few years ago. When a five-cent cup of coffee jumps to seven and then ten cents, the totals spent by British Columbians in retail purchasing lose some of their imposing authority. Our citizens still have the funds to buy what they need, but coffee counter economics may dampen some ardor that might arise from potential record retail sales when the year ends.

LAST OF THEIR KIND

IT DOES NOT TAKE ANY GREAT knowledge or love of wildlife for the average person to feel regret over reports that various species are dying out. The passenger pigeon, which inhabited this continent in countless thousands a generation ago, is now no more. The whooping crane is dying out—only about a score of specimens can be accounted for. And in our own locality, the trumpeter swan, seen here occasionally but rapidly disappearing, is marked for extinction unless man offers protection and assistance.

There is something tragic about the thought that a whole species—the product of thousands of generations of evolution—should vanish completely. It has happened in many cases as the result of changes in the natural environment. The dinosaurs and mastodons, the sabre-toothed tigers and other creatures of pre-historic times died out as their food supply, climate or other factors changed.

But in recent cases of extinction it has been man himself who provided the cause. The passenger pigeon was slaughtered ruthlessly for food and for sport, as was also the buffalo. The whooping crane and the trumpeter swan, while less a victim of man's killing instinct, have been equally affected by the encroachments of civilization. Nesting marshes have disappeared, feeding grounds have been diminished, migratory flyways have become hazardous, gun-infested gantlets that must be run each year. Thus it is that the Wildlife Service of British Columbia is appealing to the public to assist in saving the trumpeter from extinction. It is a humanitarian and scientific appeal that should not go ignored.

ON THEIR OWN

SINCE THE TERMINATION OF GUERRILLA warfare in Indonesia last May, diplomatic experts have been working continuously at The Hague to clear the way for a permanent settlement of problems concerning this great section of the Dutch colonial empire. Yesterday the results of their efforts were made public. The Netherlands has agreed to recognition of the United States of Indonesia, the latter country to enjoy complete sovereign independence and an equal partnership in a Dutch-Indonesian union modelled along the lines of the British Commonwealth, and having Queen Juliana as its official head. It is to come into being before the end of this year. So passes a colonial regime that began 300 years ago but could not withstand the world-wide urge toward political independence that has particularly marked the past decade. In giving Indonesia freedom as a national entity, the Dutch have but followed the lead of Britain in agreeing to similar developments in India and Pakistan, Burma and Malaya. This latest act will provide fresh encouragement for those peoples still struggling to achieve national status.

For the 70,000,000 inhabitants of Indonesia yesterday's announcement will open a new era of political progress—and problems. Their path in recent years has not been an easy one, and armed conflict has not been confined to that waged in the course of the natives-versus-foreigners quarrel. But it is to be hoped that with such Netherlands assistance as is required, they may now build a stable governmental system that will survive the tribulations attendant on the formation of a new political realm. In this connection their way is not uncharted. Their federated form of union has a ready example in the United States of America and in the Dominion of Canada, while their projected new form of association with The Netherlands, as we have suggested, can find a working model in our own Commonwealth structure.

From these sources the Indonesians and the Dutch may take such suggestions as they wish, secure in the knowledge that what they are now attempting to emulate is a wholly practicable and successful system. The free nations of the world will join in congratulations to both The Netherlands and the U.S., and extend wishes for the progress and prosperity of the new political creations.

FOREWARNED, FOREARMED

SUGGESTIONS EMANATING FROM London, that the current British effort to eliminate from 1950 purchases every dollar's worth of imports not urgently needed will include all the newspaper formerly bought from Canada and most, if not all, of the timber products, may herald a forced tightening of economic conditions here. In 1948 Canadian newspaper exports to the United Kingdom amounted to 61,000 tons. This was a minor part of the total export production of 4,640,000 tons, more than three-quarters of which went to the United States. Hence a complete curtailment of British purchases of this commodity might not be felt too drastically in the Dominion. The American demand is such that it would no doubt absorb all the Canadian newspaper available, while the domestic demand is continually increasing.

But timber and timber products present a different picture. A complete cessation of such purchases in 1950 would have repercussions in both eastern and western Canada, while a drastic cut, even though not total, would have effects almost as far-reaching. Whether or not the exports will be thus reduced must await official disclosure. But it would be well, in anticipation of such a move, to prepare the home front for the changes that would ensue in our economic situation. We have at least been warned of the possibilities.

BEYOND REPROACH

IN NATIONS WHICH ENJOY FREEDOM of the press, it is axiomatic that the liberties extended to those who gather and present the news and who comment upon it should be matched by a measure of responsibility. There are, of course, cases in which the freedom is abused to the point of license. In such instances the laws of libel furnish a means of redress to any person who is injured. That is a point kept before the individual who is learning the newspaper business. It emphasizes to the junior the necessity of developing his sense of responsibility and of curbing any inclination to use his position on his paper improperly.

Against this basic concept in the newspaper world of democratic nations, the position of the Russian news agency Tass becomes thoroughly incongruous. When Vladimir Krajina, a former professor at Prague University, claimed he had been labelled in a Tass news story in 1948, he was confronted by the statement that the agency was an organ of the Soviet state and enjoyed diplomatic immunity. That is protection with a vengeance. But does the doctrine of the infallibility of the Soviet state extend to its creatures? Or doesn't the principle of the libel laws apply to anything written with Moscow's blessing?

NOTES

There are two classes of people who get paid for fond embraces—movie stars and wrestlers.

For years Canadians have been subjected to publicity calculated to impress them with the fact that although British Columbia white salmon was extremely good, pink was better, and nothing was superior to red salmon. What shall we call the latter now that Russia looms as a formidable competitor against the local pack?

Cabled From Rome
THE LIBERAL OPPORTUNITY

IN MY preceding article I noted the fact that in continental western Europe—particularly in France, western Germany and Italy—men who, profess the liberal rather than the socialist principle have now a small ascendancy within the anti-Communist coalitions that support the governments. But no one who believes, as I do, that only a liberal Europe could be united, prosperous and free, can afford to think wishfully that the success of the liberals is assured. He can say only that success is possible.

FOR WE must remember that the liberals are in the ascendant because the Communists, the Socialists and the left Christian Democrats have split the vote of the wage earners and of the discontented peasants. There is no solid liberal majority in any of the large nations. There is only a slender liberal plurality. It would disappear quickly if the breach between the Communists and Socialists were healed.

The liberals can never forget that the breach can be healed and that the wage earners and peasants can become united against them. Unless the liberals can achieve a real majority among the masses of the people by the success of their liberal measures, it is most probable that the Socialists and Communists will once again form a united opposition. Though there is no quarrel so bitter as that between the official Socialist leaders and the Communists of the Cominform, it is probable that this quarrel does not reach deeply into the mass of their followers. The quarrel could therefore be composed.

THAT could happen if the popular standard of life were to fall while the benefits and the profits of recovery were largely pre-empted by the propertied classes. Sufficient discontent based on a sense of injustice and unequal sacrifices could heal the breach which Communist tactics have caused.

The breach could also be healed if, as is not at all impossible, the Communist parties of western Europe should begin to take the Tito line—that is to say to rebel against Russian domination while remaining Communist.

Thus the liberals at the head of governments have a precarious hold on their offices. If they are not to be pushed aside again, they will very quickly have to make bold and energetic use of what may be no more than a fleeting opportunity.

HERE THOSE in America who are critical of European socialism and would like the liberals to succeed must be on guard. It will not do to fix attention solely on the welfare measures which cost more than these countries can afford, and on the taxes and regulations which discourage the private formation of capital, encourage hoarding and the flight of capital, and destroy the incentive to enterprise—and on the effect of full employment plus trade unionism plus labor parties in weakening industry's discipline.

The liberals, if they are free of class prejudice, must pay equal attention to the other side of the picture: to the fact that so much of the industry of Europe is publicly subsidized, is administered monopolistically, and is protected not only by international cartels, but by monetary controls.

ANY ATTEMPT to apply the liberal principle to the working class alone will almost certainly mean a disastrous failure. Yet there is a most serious possibility that something like this may be attempted—that in the name of liberalism the protective system may be dismantled for the working class while the propertied classes continue to protect themselves against the rigors and the risks of competition. There is a good deal of double talk about economic freedom. There are powerful interests which, like the barons and King John, mean by freedom only their own freedom—a license to the cartels and monopolies to continue to be subsidized but not regulated or broken up by the state.

The inner crisis of liberalism will, I believe, develop on this issue—on whether, to put it bluntly, the liberal principle is to be applied to the whole economy, to business as well as to labor.

THE GENUINE LIBERALS—of whom there are some with considerable influence in all countries—will attempt an even-handed liberalism. They are prepared to bring in measures to reform the tax laws and the corporation laws in order to liberalize and to make honestly competitive the industries which are now so monopolistic, and in the American sense of the word so unenterprising. They have a hard road ahead of them. For the industrial habits and customs of European business have been formed for generations in an environment of subsidies, protection, price-fixing, and the avoidance of competition.

The American influence on the outcome, though not decisive, will be considerable. As long as Marshall aid continues in its present form American officials in the European capitals and in Washington can determine the use of the large counter-part funds—of the local currencies earned by the European governments from the sale of the goods which the American government provides.

THESE COUNTERPART funds are a very important influence in the economy of France, Western Germany and Italy. It is most important that the American officials who wield this influence should know how to distinguish clearly and firmly between genuine liberalism and that pseudo-liberalism, which is so often the masquerade of reactionary vested interests.

It May Take A Lot Of Hammering

Is Labrador The Answer?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, from New York

THE UNITED STATES is a nation built upon steel. And most Americans probably don't give too much thought to the problem of where the steel comes from. They assume that because the supply has been ample up to now, it always will be.

SERIOUSLY DEPLETED

The truth is that American reserves of high-grade iron ore, from which steel is made, are seriously depleted. Some steel firms face a shortage of raw material within a few years. The most fortunate can see stocks lasting no more than 20 to 25 years.

Since before the turn of the century the United States has had an amazingly cheap source of iron ore: the famed Mesabi Range in Minnesota. Here high-grade ore has been mined in open pits by the simple steam shovel method. From these pits came the material that carried America and its allies through two world wars.

But while the second great conflict was in progress, a steel man said: "This is the last war that will be fought off the Mesabi." In other words, the reserves were eaten away so badly by the huge armaments program that they would play out if forced to supply the sins of another war.

This realization is food for sober thinking. The dwindling of top-grade ore stocks means this: Either the U.S. must find new sources of supply or it must see one of the stoutest props of its economic strength knocked out from under it.

There are two main possibilities before the nation. One is to turn to foreign sources: Fabulous undeveloped reserves of iron ore exist in Brazil and Labrador, and Venezuela is a secondary prospect.

The other course is to dip into America's own vast holdings of low-grade ore—a material hitherto largely untouched because of the high cost of mining it. Heavy investments of new plants would be needed to concentrate low-grade ore sufficiently for commercial purposes.

Some eastern mills already rely on Venezuelan sources. And development work is now going forward in Labrador on a considerable scale.

But American steel companies are understandably reluctant to plan a wholesale switch to foreign ores. The problems are many: keeping friendly political relations with the supplying country, protection of the raw material lifeline in case of war, possible costly shift of plants from present inland centres to coastal cities to reduce overland transportation costs.

Experimental plant operations with low-grade ore have thus been undertaken in the hope the domestic alternative will offer a better, safer answer. And now a mining company has taken the first step toward more ambitious production of commercial concentrates from low-quality sources.

The move looks wise and it is to be hoped that other big firms will follow suit. Even though the domestic development of new supplies might prove costlier than reliance on foreign ores, it would be worth the expense if the country thereby avoided grave new political and military difficulties.

Renewed Interest In Antarctica

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

CIVILIZATION'S need for the vast, high land mass round the South Pole—of which an area somewhat larger than the continental United States never has been seen by man—may become apparent in the next half century.

COAL AND OIL

It is known to contain enormous coal deposits, the remains of its great forests of 300,000,000 years ago when its climate may have been semitropical. Coal veins, protruding above the thick icecap, stick out of the mountain tops. There is almost certainly oil under the ice.

This is the view of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, whose proposal for this fifth Antarctic expedition, with navy ships and personnel, now is before the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff after having been canceled for reasons of economy this summer.

The possibility that Antarctica may contain considerable supplies of uranium, which can be mined, must be considered. Admiral Byrd says. Search for the essential element of the atomic bomb is alleged to be the reason for the renewed interest in the Antarctic continent where six nations are trying to establish claims this year.

PRACTICAL DIFFICULTIES

Generally, this has been discounted by all persons familiar with the Polar continent because of the extreme difficulty of detection and of mining operations under ice. The idea that uranium deposits may be present has rested on no tangible evidence.

But within the last few months, Admiral Byrd says, Chilean naval parties, setting up permanent bases on the shores of the Palmer Peninsula—northernmost extension of Antarctica, have claimed definite evidence of uranium in the rocks. Also, Sir Douglas Mawson, Australian Antarctic explorer and one of the best-informed men on the resources of the continent, has maintained the high probability of such deposits.

RUSSIAN SURVEYS

It is possible that these reports have stimulated recent Russian interest. It is known that unnamed Russian ships carrying powerful aircraft have been cruising in Antarctic waters, presumably making air surveys to locate ice-free areas.

All these facts, says Admiral Byrd, now are before the Joint Chiefs of Staff who are reconsidering the canceled expedition which would have involved a dozen ships and about 3,500 men.

Looking At Cold Facts

From a speech delivered recently in Washington by Mr. Edwin G. Nourse, prominent American economist, who resigned last week from the three-man Council of Economic Advisors set up to provide a professional advisory service for President Truman.

I AM UNEASY when I see farmers demanding stimulative prices whilst government accumulates gigantic surplus holdings, pays subsidies out of federal deficits, and imposes production allotments and marketing quotas.

ECONOMIC DRAIN

As an economist, I do not see standards of life being raised adequately out of enlarged production, when a great labor organization sees the current situation as the "occasion for a reduction in the hours of work" (to 35 or 30) . . . or when the czar of coal orders a three-day week with full pay for a redundant labor force, and when pensions at 60 are demanded for a population steadily becoming longer-lived.

I am filled with apprehension, too, when I look to management and see it choosing the costs of banked fires and the demoralization of the delicate adjustments of supply lines and distribution patterns rather than capitalistically venturesome re-examination of its practices of accounting and its theories of price-making.

I am not happy either when I see government slipping back into deficits as a way of life in a period when production and employment are high, instead of putting its fiscal house in order and husbanding reserves to support the economy if less prosperous times overtake us.

MAINTAIN BALANCE

[We must] recognize that we can't get more out of the economic system than we put in, that collective bargaining in good faith and on solid facts is a road to a workable distribution of total product, and that monetary and fiscal tricks have no power of magic but are a slippery road to misery.

THE DAY of small nations has passed away; the day of empires has come.

You may have three guesses as to when that declaration was made, and by whom. Give up? Well, the famous British statesman Joseph Chamberlain made that statement in 1904 during a speech at Birmingham, Eng. That was only 45 years ago.

Yesterday the Dutch signed away their sovereignty to the rich Dutch East Indies over which the Netherlands had ruled for three centuries. These brightest jewels in the Imperial Crown now comprise the United States of Indonesia—a Republic. The 70,000,000 natives of these bounteous islands of spices and sugar and rubber and oil are taking over management of their own birthright.

Thus the Netherlands has followed the footsteps of Britain which rapidly has turned her vast empire into a commonwealth of independent nations. The Dutch move gives us further indisputable proof that we must reverse Chamberlain's statement and note that "the day of empires has passed away; the day of small nations has come."

The historic agreement between the Dutch and the Indonesians was signed at The Hague. Under that pact, which is subject to approval of the Dutch and Indonesian parliaments, the new republic becomes a sovereign part of the Dutch commonwealth which is linked together by the Crown. The union is similar to the British Commonwealth.

On one important point the Indonesians were disappointed. They had wanted to include the Dutch portion of the great island of New Guinea in the republic. The Dutch opposed the transfer and finally the matter was compromised on the basis that the Netherlands should retain control of the New Guinea territory for another year, pending further discussions as to its ultimate disposition. The eastern part of New Guinea is, of course, occupied by Australia.

NEGLECTED MARKETS

Ottawa Citizen
Sir Basil R. G. Tangye, British industrialist, said during a visit to Ottawa that he was surprised to find that Canada imported things like pumps from the United States. Some of Britain's "merchant adventures," as Mr. Churchill calls them, have apparently so neglected the Canadian market that they do not even know what this country imports.

SWEETEST STREET

London (Ont.) Free Press
"Lombardo Avenue," which will grace the new maps of London, should, of course, be the sweetest street this side of heaven. Thus will the city fittingly, and no doubt permanently, establish in civic annals the name of a native son who has brought international distinction to London, and to Canada, in the difficult field of musical entertainment.

The decision to incorporate the Lombardo name in laying out a new subdivision is a happy one and the honor is well deserved. For it was not by accident that young Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians achieved top ranking in their chosen profession. His success points to the enrichment of a new country from an old; in this case the coming of the Lombardo family not only gave us musicians but also a title which to euphoniously adorn a London street.

OF WINGS AND THINGS

Toronto Globe and Mail
The Duke of Edinburgh has caused a furore in Savile Row by wearing a high wing collar with a double-breasted dinner jacket. The style dictators of that famous street can take either the wing collar or the jacket by itself, but together! — "Most extraordinary" — never heard of such a thing. For them, the double-breasted jacket comes with a turn-down collar, or else. After all, they have only accepted it in the last ten years, so the jacket is still a bit of a sartorial upstart.

Rugged as it may be, the wing collar is a weak and possibly cowardly compromise with the old wingless variety our ancestors wore, known as the throat-cutter. Here the points, instead of folding back on wings, clamped together in a pincers movement just above the chin. The saw-edge left by the laundry made them even more interesting. However, come to think of it, our forebears managed to live to a ripe old age, so maybe the throat-cutter has been maligned. Either that, or we in this age are a lot of sissies.

By-Laws Get Spotlight In Saanich By-Elections

In addition to a reeve and seven council members, a police commission representative and school board's trustees, the ratepayers of Saanich will cast their ballots on four by-laws and two referendums at the coming December elections.

It is one of the heaviest programs of election issues—if not the biggest—in the history of the 43-year-old large municipality.

Most expensive item on the money bylaw list is that for the installation of a sewerage system in Saanich. While final details are not ironed out, it is estimated the project will cost $1,700,000.

The bill for a modern, improved street lighting system for the municipality's inner portions—the most heavily populated sections—has not been worked out totally as yet. By-law is in the process of being drafted.

There is a large by-law to cover the expense of building new schools in Saanich part of School District No. 63.

The whole cost is $850,000. Of this the provincial government will pay one half.

Saanich's share will be $219,500, according to John B. Tribe, Saanich municipal clerk. The cost to the unorganized territory in the school district, he said, would be about $206,000.

Trustee Percy Thorp recently appealed to Saanich Council for a share of the municipality's 3 per cent tax money to help pay a part of the by-law cost. He stressed the great importance of having the by-law approved by the ratepayers, noting that it was planned for providing for the future as well as the present day.

1,400 AT SCHOOL

"During my time on the school board the school population has gone up and up—from 750 to 1,400 students," he said. Council committee is reviewing his appeal for a share of tax money, new sites for schools and other matters involved in the by-law.

The fourth by-law is whether the voters want to reduce the council strength to seven, instead of eight as now. Councillor W. C. Kersey asked for the reduction in the councillor strength to six. Design here is to eliminate the vexing tie vote. If approved the plan will not go into effect until 1951.

The referendums are for the ratepayers to decide. One is whether they favor paying an increased cost for garbage collection disposal and whether they favor Saanich entering into an agreement with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for a fixed taxation on the Crown corporation's plan for housing on the old Lansdowne airport property for veterans. Council's action last week in abolishing the ward system changes the council election picture. Whereas before the councillors were elected within the boundaries of their wards, they will now be elected at large. Four candidates polling the most votes win a two-year term on the council, the other three elected getting one-year terms. The reeve will be elected for a two-year term.

Expectation is that all council members will seek re-election, with the exception of Councillor William E. Bond. He has reported that he will be unable to stand for re-election due to pressure of business.

Reeve E. C. Warren has stated his intention to stand for re-election.

To date the only man outside the present council who has stated he will enter the field for a council seat is Sydney Pickles, president of Ward Six Ratepayers' Association. However, he points out that he will only seek office if the farming ward is still a part of Saanich. Ward Six is awaiting the government's decision on its application for secession.

Mrs. M. Buxton Dies Here At 94

Mrs. Margaret Buxton, one of Victoria's oldest citizens who came to Victoria in 1928, died Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital at the age of 94.

A native of Matlock, Derbyshire, Eng., Mrs. Buxton came to Canada 50 years ago with her husband William Buxton, who predeceased her five years ago. Mr. Buxton was for many years in the provincial government's land-titles branch at Tisdale, Sask.

She is survived by two sons, William in Victoria and Harold in Tisdale; a daughter, Miss Margaret Buxton, with whom she resided at 3447 Douglas Street; a granddaughter, Miss Betty Buxton in Victoria; a grandson, Rev. W. W. Buxton in Fort Saskatchewan, Alta. There are four great-grandchildren.

Rev. H. J. Jones will conduct funeral services Saturday at 3 from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 21-year-old University of British Columbia student attempted to gas himself in his home here late Wednesday.

Two police constables applied respiration to the youth when they found him unconscious.

Police learned he had been depressed because he had failed to pass his university examinations and was unable to find employment.

Cardinal Marmaggi Dies At Vatican

ROME (AP)—Francesco Cardinal Marmaggi, one of the top administrators in the Vatican, died early today following a heart attack. He was 73.

Cardinal Marmaggi, elevated to the Sacred College in 1935, was Prefect of the Congregation of the Council. He directed the application and enforcement of decrees of the Council of Trent and other church laws.

His death reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 54. The full membership is 70.

The Congregation of the Council is one of 11 departments, each headed by a cardinal, that administer affairs of the Roman Catholic Church.

With 16 vacancies in the College of Cardinals, Pope Pius is expected to call a secret consistory sometime before the

Princess Margaret Smokes In Public

LONDON (UP)—Any doubt that 19-year-old Princess Margaret smokes has been removed. The Princess attended a Halloween ball at the swank Dorchester Hotel. After dinner she was seen to accept a cigarette from her escort, the Marquess of Blandford.

"I am disappointed but not surprised," said F. J. Phillips, secretary for Britain's Society of Non-Smokers. "This is the first time ever that the Princess has been seen to smoke a cigarette in public."

Margaret's older sister, Princess Elizabeth, keeps an ashtray and cigarette box on her desk with matches, but a Buckingham Palace servant said recently that Elizabeth "definitely does not smoke."

Crosby Watches TV; His Debut Will Not Come For Year Yet

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A calculating gent, Bing Crosby despite his lethargic manner. He has been keeping a keen eye on television.

The groaner revealed that he watches all the bigtime TV shows, looking to the future and his own debut in the medium.

Crosby indicated he will definitely get into video and his show will be filmed so that it can be edited. However, his TV debut is at least a year in the future, maybe longer.

The Legion of Decency's condemnation of the new Bette Davis film, "Beyond the Forest," surprised Hollywood. It is the only major United States film on the condemned list, now that "The Outlaw" has been re-classified "objectionable in part."

Shelley Winters is buying a house, her first in Hollywood. "Now maybe I can get a husband," remarks the remarkable Shelley.

George Stevens is planning "Mr. and Mrs. Anonymous," a story of two people who meet through Alcoholics Anonymous. It's strange that A.A. hasn't been treated before by Hollywood, which is on the search for problems.

Gregory Peck was asked if his sons have shown any acting leanings. "They'd better not," he said. "Feeling the way I do about juvenile actors, I'd bash their heads in."

Terraced Grounds, Modern Building To Replace Unsightly Rockpile In City

By the time 1951 rolls around, the above scene should be replaced by a modern building with terraced grounds and rock gardens surrounding it. Workmen are shown erecting hoarding around the triangular-shaped property as blasting and excavations get under way.

The unsightly pile of rocks on the triangular-shaped "island" of property bounded by Burdett, McClure and Blanshard Streets is disappearing.

By the end of next year, where once there were rocks, sods of grass, a bush or two and the odd tree, all on the steep slope of the downtown piece of property, there will be a modern building surrounded by attractive, landscaped grounds.

The building, which will be four stories high on the south (McClure Street) side, and three stories on the Burdett Street side, will house head offices of the British Columbia Power Commission.

According to Henry Whittaker, architect, grounds will be terraced because of the steep gradient, and a rock garden theme will be utilized to a large extent.

As a background to the terraces, the west side of the structure will be trimmed with marble and will be equipped with floodlights for a night-lighting effect.

The point which forms the western extremity of the property is owned by the city, but it will be included in the landscaping to conform with the rest of the site.

The property has long been considered by citizens as an eyesore.

Many had given up hope that it could be utilized, even though it was close to the business district, and overlooked the Empress Hotel and the Crystal Garden.

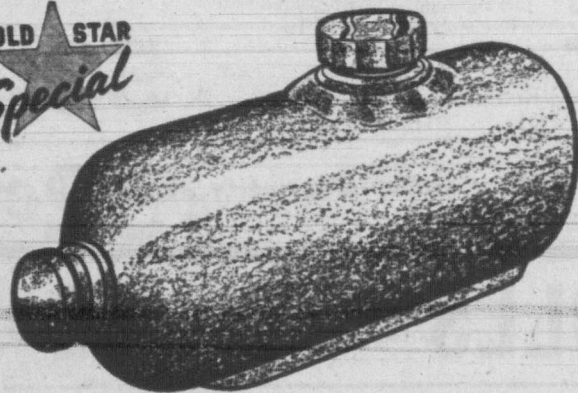

Originally purchased by the provincial government as a possible site for a new courthouse, the property has been "tossed around like a football" an old-time Victorian commented.

Construction of the $500,000 power building is expected to be finished in about 10 months, and landscaping will likely be carried out shortly thereafter.

Farmers Want Agriculture On Business Basis—Hannam

TORONTO (CP)—H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said today he was convinced the "next great step forward in human history" will be that of the world feeding itself by means of an orderly, organized, international plan.

"I believe that's the real basis for both peace and security," said Mr. Hannam in an address before the Empire Club of Canada.

Mr. Hannam outlined the steps leading to formation of the federation and its growth to an organization that now includes all branches of agriculture and all provinces. It has an affiliated membership of some 400,000—more than 60 per cent of the Dominion's farmer population.

"Our Canadian farmers want to put agriculture on a business basis," said Mr. Hannam.

"Farmers want some assurance of stability in markets projected ahead a few years to enable them to plan their production with confidence.

"With this view, we found the farmers of all countries in complete agreement.

"This desire for systematic and stable marketing is basic in the reasoning of world farmers in recommending international commodity agreements, of which the international wheat agreement is a typical example."

POPULATION GROWS

Mr. Hannam said that although present food production surpassed that before the Second World War, an increased world population had lowered production per capita below the prewar mark.

"Farmers believe in a policy of abundant production," he said. "They have not at any conference suggested restricting production in order to maintain profitable prices for themselves."

But he warned that Canada's farmers "remember all too vividly the tragic experiences of the past with its unwanted surpluses, and have grave fears, that without due safeguards, expanding production may bring only a repetition of past disasters."

Alberta, Ontario Potteries Asking Tariff Protection

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—The potter's wheel, which teamed with cheap natural gas to mold much of the development of this southern Alberta industrial city, is spinning perilously today.

Devaluation of the pound sterling threatens the existence of two big factories that have made Medicine Hat the only pottery-making centre west of Hamilton and one of the greatest in the Dominion.

Because of devaluation, English pottery can undersell the Canadian product in the Dominion. Already one plant here has cut production by 80 per cent and laid off 200 of its 280 employees.

The Medicine Hat and Hamilton potteries managements have approached the federal government to set up a tariff against English ceramics to safeguard the Canadian industry.

In a brief to the government, they warned that unless some protective action is taken, "the industry is quite certain that within the next two, or three months such a very large volume of business will be lost that industry will fold up. And in that event, it is unlikely it will ever be revived in Canada."

Progress of the pottery industry and Medicine Hat has gone hand in hand. Great banks of clay in the surrounding district and millions of cubic feet of natural gas under the city brought the industry here in 1912.

The Medicine Hat plant manufactured stoneware until 1938, when it switched to hotel and restaurant dinnerware. These products are now being undersold by British companies.

A second plant, Medicine Hat Pottery, opened in 1938. It specializes in household dinnerware.

The two big plants, along with another at Redcliff, seven miles from here, employ more than 500 persons. Between them they produce an estimated 1,500,000 pieces of pottery monthly—ranging from tableware to household novelties.

The Medicine Hat Pottery, which introduced colored breakfastware in Canada, is experimenting with decorated fine china similar to British lines. Much of its clay is imported from eastern Canada.

One reason British pottery can undersell the Canadian quantity is that it costs less to ship by water from England to Vancouver than it does to ship by rail from here to the west coast.

And there is no tariff on English pottery entering Canada.

Officials of the Medicine Hat plants, who say labor represents 60 per cent of their production costs, have announced they will not cut employees' wages to lower prices.

Arthritic And Rheumatic Pain

New Prescription Found Effective

Arthritic and Rheumatic pain and inflammation can strike the joints in many parts of the body and there are varying forms and symptoms. A new concentrated prescription for external use has been found effective in giving quick relief from pain. The prescription is a combination of oils which you dab with a tuft of cotton on the effected parts, these oils will penetrate the skin barriers so there is no question of having to apply massage. You can obtain the prescription from your druggist by simply asking for 3 ozs. of Zolvum Oils Concentrated and if your skin gets tender, get 1/2 oz. of Zolvum Ointment which you do massage gently into the skin. The use of the ointment once or twice every 24 hours will be beneficial. Cut this out as a reminder.

Vancouver Sentence 15 Years, 10 Lashes

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Kenneth Clark of Port Coquitlam was sentenced Wednesday to 15 years in prison and 10 lashes following conviction on a rape charge.

a 25-year-old Courtenay woman who testified she had been dragged from her escort's car in Stanley Park here April 7 and attacked by Clark and two companions.

The escort testified the accused and two companions masqueraded as park police and told him they wanted to question him. The woman was left with one of the trio, he said, and he found her later in hysterics. Clark was captured in August Vases of chrysanthemums centred tea tables where refreshments were served by Clover Point group assisted by Passa-Pas group. The hot dinner served between 6 and 7.30 was arranged by Quadra Heights group.

Proving that Christmas is just around the corner, jars of mince-meat, and the Tule logs at another table were quickly sold. Popular were tiny figurines, dressed in lace and dipped into plastic to represent Dresden.

Guests were entertained with a musical program arranged by Mrs. Roberto Wood and including songs by Dorothy Mae Charles, community singing led by Doug Welch and piano selections by Frances Appleton.

Films were shown by Albert Beeres and games arranged for younger children by Miss Margaret Walker. During the evening Fred McGregor auctioned a doll made by Mrs. G. Clarke, Fairfield group.

Colors Impress Traveler On Tour

The impression of color in all the various countries visited during a recent tour abroad with her husband was described by Mrs. Victori Leigh at the last meeting of L'Alliance Francaise.

The green, "almost emerald" of England in spring, the purple heather on the Scottish hills, the grey stone buildings of the old lands, the hills of Skye "that looked black as jet in the rain," and the red, ivory and gold of the interior of Buckingham Palace, was all described in clear-cut word pictures by Mrs. Leigh.

Italy's rose and terra cotta toned houses and the white sands of the Riviera under a golden sun were also vivid memories for her, as were the vivid hues of flowers at Sorrento and the many shades of blue to be found at Lake Lucerne, the Isle of Capri and in the Mediterranean.

Mrs. Leigh spoke of the many points of interest visited on the continent where she and her husband traveled by car more than 4,000 miles, the British Isles, a royal garden party, and a trip by air over the North Sea to Denmark, Holland and Belgium, also a visit to Paris.

Mme. Renee Archibald presided at the meeting.

Distinguished Visitor In City

Comtesse de Parc, wife of the Belgian Ambassador to Canada, is a visitor in Victoria at present with her husband. In the hours they have away from official duties they are enjoying their hobby, which is color photography. Comte and Comtesse de Parc are staying at the Empress Hotel.

Vivid memories of two world wars—the first when she was a young girl on her father's country estate in Belgium, the second after she had become the wife of a Belgian diplomat—and the experiences of "taking one's home with you" to many parts of the world, have given Vicomtesse du Parc a philosophical outlook on life and a way of enjoying people and places, wherever she may be.

Vicomtesse du Parc is a visitor in Victoria at present with her husband, Vicomte Alain de Parc, Belgium's ambassador to Canada.

They have been traveling across Canada, visiting large cities and small, wherever there may be Belgium people that might wish to meet them.

"We have enjoyed the experience so much," the Comtesse says, "and we find that although many of the Belgians have been in this country for many years, they still welcome contact with the homeland."

The Comtesse has always been interested in work among the women and children of her country. During the First World War she was active in a group that assisted in seeing that the babies and the very young children were fed.

"This was not easy," she tells you, "we had to go from farm to farm, asking for milk. And it was difficult to find food at all, in many instances."

The Second World War, from 1939 to 1941, she was in Romania, where her husband was head of the Belgian Embassy.

"We had to be very diplomatic in those days," she says with a quiet smile, "for although Romania was still free, the Germans were there in the thousands."

The Belgian Embassy was closed at the time the British left Romania, and the Comtesse de Parc, with her husband and young daughter, traveled through the Black Sea, across Africa and then to the Belgian Embassy at New York.

Following the war, they went to Sweden and from Sweden came to the embassy at Ottawa.

A son, Joseph, is still in Belgium, but the daughter, Claude, came to Canada with her parents and is attending school in the Dominion's capital city.

During the final choral, a tableau of Our Lady, impersonated by Lorraine Conroy, was presented against a glowing cathedral window at the back of the stage.

Miss Dorothy Harding, L.R.S.M., and Miss Elizabeth Harding, A.R.C.T., were senior pianists on the program; Miss Dorothy Harding accompanied Miss Betty Renny who gave a delightful vocal solo. First Year 'Tough' But Answer Is Friendship, Say Newcomers

By JIM McKEACHIE

"The first year is the toughest," say many young newlyweds—and there is a group in Victoria whose members agree with the statement when it is used to refer to settling in a new country.

But, while there are many formulae put forth for easing the social strain for newlyweds, the local organization has found that there is but a single answer for folks who are new to Canada, and, more specifically, to Victoria.

That answer is friendship.

For those who thought this formula needed proving, it was amply supplied Wednesday night at the Army and Navy Veterans' auditorium as the recently organized New Imperials Club held its first social.

VARIED ACCENTS

There were varied accents heard in the hall as more than 120 danced, made new acquaintances and chatted over a "spot of tea."

That the club will do much to make life in Victoria happier for new Canadians from Britain was well illustrated.

Take the case of Ted Hartland, 31-year-old R.A.F. veteran:

Ted married a Canadian girl who was caught in England when war broke out in 1939 and was unable to get home. They came to Canada in January, 1947, and headed straight for Victoria. A journeyman electrician, Ted started at work at his trade.

"That first year kind of got me—it was tough—I was seriously considering packing it up and going back home to Birmingham," he recalled at the New Imperials Club gathering.

VICTORIA 'STIFF-COLLARED'

One of the chief reasons was, he says, that he found many Victorians too stiff-collared—too reserved. But, he added, "I found that was true of only some of the English people here. I stuck it out and got to know some fine folks—through a young married couples' club at a city church—and now am getting to know a lot more at this club. Organizations like this did wonders for us—we're staying in Canada."

Like most of the English people in the group, the Hartlands chose Victoria because of its climate.

Ted's wife, Vera, hails originally from Prince Albert, but would only like to return there now for a holiday.

And, after eight years in England, she thinks "Canada is the only place."

BRIGHTER FUTURE

George D. Titterton came to this country from Staffordshire in the summer of 1947 largely because he and his wife felt there was a brighter future for their three young sons in this country.

Now 40, Mr. Titterton has established himself in his own jewelry store, Hillside Jewelry, 2665 Quadra Street. But in order to do so he first worked in a large downtown jewelry store, for, like nearly all those who have come here in recent years, he had to build up a stock of dollars.

Mr. Titterton would like the New Imperials Club to go one better. He thinks it should not be confined to British people only, but should be for all newcomers, and should be renamed something like "The Strangers' Club."

He, his wife, and his three sons, aged 17, nine and three, are happy in Victoria now—but they enjoy an evening talking about the old country.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morley, 1420 Haultain Street, like the "freedom to do as you like" in this country. They say restrictions in England now make living hard. They hail from Stoke-on-Trent.

The Morleys have only been here seven months, three less than their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Bowen, 988 Wilmer Street. Both Mr. Morley and Mr. Bowen are plasterers.

Though many folks at the New Imperial Club Wednesday evening said they found Canadians kind and helpful, many agreed a club where newcomers could meet and chat was "practically a necessity."

The reason: There are too many cliques in Victoria.

"Of course, once you get to know a few people it is all right, but it is that 'breaking-in' period that is difficult," remarked one man.

If Wednesday's gathering was an indication, the New Imperials Club will make a go of it. The club stemmed from the Ex-R.A.F. Club which was liquidated in favor of a more universal group. Social convener Sid Upton was in charge of the first group's first social gathering Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hartland were all set to "pack it up" and return to England till they made a few friends in Victoria. Here they chat to Steve Joyce, centre, president of the New Imperials Club, at the group's first social gathering Wednesday evening.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

LEARN TO MAKE AN INTELLIGENT RESPONSE

This is the fourth of a series of articles taken from Fred L. Karpin's new edition of the Point-Count System of Bidding in Contract Bridge.

In today's article Mr. Karpin continues his explanation of his ace and king showing responses to an opening two-bid in a suit.

While this chapter has nothing to do with the point-count system of bidding, nevertheless it is worth your while to become thoroughly familiar with the convention, as a greater part of it has been used by many of the country's good players.

It will be a rare occasion when you hold an ace and two kings opposite partner's opening two-bid. When you do you can tell him exactly what you have, thereby eliminating the guess in the hand. With today's holding, you first show the ace by bidding that suit, and on your rebid you jump to four no trump.

North's response of two spades showed the ace of spades. It denied any other ace. With two aces the first response would have been four no trump. North's second bid of four no trump showed two kings, which now permitted South to contract for a small slam.

If you should happen to have an ace and king in one suit, and the king of another suit, jump in the ace-king suit first, then rebid four no trump (which is a force to slam). For example: the absence of a glamorous so-Take in cut

A gentleman whom Esther Williams did not at first recognize approached her at a party the other evening and said: "Miss Williams, I just want you to know that you have taught me a valuable lesson."

When the star, currently appearing on the Royal screen in "Neptune's Daughter," expressed her bewilderment, he explained that he was head of a manufacturing concern for which she modeled prior to her screen career.

"We fired you," he said ruefully, "I believe at the time our excuse was—'no personality.'"

DOMINION THEATRE

Besides starring Sir Ralph Richardson and Michele Morgan, "The Fallen Idol," currently at the Dominion Theatre, serves to introduce young Bobby Henry to American moviegoers. This sensational nine-year-old youngster, in his first appearance before the cameras, is being hailed as the "greatest kid since Coogan."

ATLAS THEATRE

Two great Paramount pictures for the price of one are being offered by the Atlas Theatre, where "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Geronimo" are now entertaining audiences to the same full extent that they did when they were originally released several years ago.

Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court Wednesday.

The charge was dismissed after Joseph McKenna, Tippet's lawyer, asked for dismissal of the case at the conclusion of the Crown's evidence. Mr. McKenna said there was no evidence to support the charge.

Sooke—Sooke Volunteer Fire Unit sponsored a bonfire and fireworks display in Fire Chief Kenneth Shepherd's field to celebrate Halloween.

Grown-ups and children alike appeared in masquerade costume and entered into the fun.

Those in charge were: Messrs. Frank Richardson, chairman, and George Osborne.

THE STORY: Mrs. Everson, an rich widow, believes that an atomic war is pending that will mean the end of the world. So she has equipped two trailers and has set out with her servants and a companion, the Marchese Dellacasa, to reach a place of safety. Where this place is, no one but Mrs. Everson knows. Mrs. Margaret Malone, who was hired along the route to replace a cook who left because she thought Mrs. Everson was crazy, has already regretted her choice and has tried to run away. But she is checked by the Marchese who persuades her to stay. Also in the party are the chauffeur, Rudy, a former movie star, and Victor, a Filipino house-boy. Mrs. Malone finds Mrs. Everson very demanding and at breakfast she is touchy and temperamental.

CHAPTER TEN

THE MARCHESE was having his breakfast in the kitchen of the trailer. He had opened the window and a smart breeze lifted his hair. Head back, eyes closed, he took a deep breath of the desert air.

"Wonderful morning," he said exhaling and opening his eyes again. "Aren't you glad to be alive, Malone?"

"Yes, sir, Very."

Mrs. Malone hurried back with the orange juice. Just as she reached Mrs. Everson's room, the road curved and the trailer swayed sharply. Mrs. Malone staggered, clutched for support, let the glass fall. It shattered on the floor, splattering.

"You fool!" Mrs. Everson shouted.

She seized a napkin and threw it at Mrs. Malone.

"Hurry! Wipe it up before it ruins the carpet!"

"I'm sorry," Mrs. Malone gasped, on her knees. "I'll get some more."

"I don't want it, now. You're an awkward fool! Get out of here. And stay out until I ring."

Flushed and angry, Mrs. Malone went back to the kitchen. Had the trailer stopped, she would have stepped out then and there.

The smooth speed was maintained, hour after hour. There were few variations in the landscape that flowed past the windows. Occasionally, a distant table-land appeared, wheeled, disappeared. The sun climbed, implacably brilliant. Mrs. Malone busied herself in the kitchen, put her own room to rights, then straightened up the salon.

She was astonished to find small paintings set in the wall. One—a white horse rearing—was signed Chirico. Another held her puzzled for a long time. There was no signature. Only a blanching cow's skull, and a datura in full bloom. She had seen such skulls in the desert, and such flowers in the semi-tropical gardens along the coast near the sea. But never had she seen them together like this: the skull dry in death, the flower oily in life, yet strangely similar in form, in whiteness.

She remembered suddenly what the Marchese had said about things being associated that never were before. Faintly, she understood what he meant.

STRANGE AUTHORS

She turned away from the painting to look at the books. Joe had always been a great reader. He was always reading and calling out to her: "Come here a minute, Margaret. Listen to this." Kipling. Conrad. Long passages from "Puck o' Pook's Hill" or "Lord Jim."

Mrs. Everson's books were not familiar: Mrs. Malone ran her finger along the titles, but recognized none of them. Nor had she heard of the authors: Gide, d'Annunzio, von Hofmannstahl, Mallarme, Wilder, Bernheim, Rousseau. One shelf was all French and Italian. There were large, thin volumes of maps, scientific works, sociology.

To heck with it," Mrs. Malone said aloud.

She enjoyed being alone in the room, free to examine the amazing ingenuity of its designers. Lifting what appeared to be a table-top, she discovered beneath it a miniature piano. There was a sturdy safe, too, built into the end of the sofa.

DECISION TO LEAVE

At 11 o'clock, the Marchese came from his room. He wore grey flannel slacks, a short-sleeved sweat-shirt and, as before, a silk muffler. He was carrying a very shiny and beautiful flute. Sitting crosslegged on the sofa, he lifted the instrument, adjusted his lips, and began to play a sad, off-key tune.

"I'm very sorry to interrupt, sir," Mrs. Malone said, "but I've had no orders for lunch."

He paused long enough to say, "Salad. Any kind," then returned to the plaintive melody, which he played over and over. Her teeth on edge, Mrs. Malone shut herself in the kitchen and concocted what Joe called her Missouri salad: hard-boiled eggs, crisp bacon, lettuce and mayonnaise.

At noon the insistent speed slackened, the brakes were applied and the trailers came to a stop at a filling station. From the window Mrs. Malone saw the attendants, young fellows wearing oil-stained uniforms with their names Sam and Bob chain-stitched above the breast pockets. They were squinting up at the trailer, open-mouthed. Behind them the usual pumps and a sudden sharp smell of gas.

Mrs. Malone said to herself: "Here's where I get off!" She wouldn't wait to pack her suitcase again. She'd just take her purse and her coat and beat it into the service station restroom. They'd drive off without her.

Amendments Drafted To Plug Loopholes In Combines Act

OTTAWA (CP)—Amid reports that Canada's No. 1 trust-buster is resigning, the Commons Wednesday learned that legislation will be introduced shortly to plug the loopholes in the country's trust-busting laws.

Justice Minister Garson gave notice of amendments to the Combines Investigation Act shortly after it was learned on reliable authority that F. A. McGregor, Combines investigation commissioner, had quit.

Mr. Garson stepped into the debate on the 1949-50 budget in order to reply to charges by R. R. Knight (C.C.F.-Saskatoon City) that price-fixing combines are being allowed to operate in Canada, carrying on their "nefarious trade under the benevolent eye of this government."

CHANGES DRAFTED

Reviewing the government's unsuccessful case against an alleged dental combine, Mr. Garson indicated that amendments to the Combines Investigating Act are being made to plug the loophole.

The weakness in the law was that it was left to the Crown to prove that any incriminating letters seized from accused companies and entered as evidence in a combines trial were sent with the knowledge of the board of directors of those companies.

"If this judgment is permitted to stand and if in cases of this sort it is necessary as part of the Crown's case that we should prove that the acts which were referred to in documents seized in that way have been authorized by the board of directors in a formal manner, we think it will be almost impossible to administer the Combines Act," Mr. Garson said.

It is understood one of the amendments will put the onus on the accused to prove that he had no knowledge of any such letters.

PATENTS CANCELED

During his remarks Mr. Garson referred to Mr. McGregor's report alleging that a combine existed in the optical trade. Because of the judgment in the dental case, the government had not taken regular court action against the companies.

However, it had been discovered that patents held by the companies were in large part the basis for the alleged price-fixing of optical goods. The government had taken action to have the patents declared invalid.

Two of the patents had since been declared invalid, and two others had been "dedicated to the public, the patentees having abandoned their defence." A fifth had expired and judgment on two others was pending.

Mr. Garson said it was his impression that all "illegal activities" in the optical goods field have "completely ceased."

Resignation of Mr. McGregor four years before the normal 65-year retirement age will become effective Jan. 1.

Mr. McGregor has been the key figure in anti-monopoly investigations of dental supply, optical, bread and flour-milling firms.

There was speculation that he resigned to underline his protest against the way the government acted on his reports.

Mr. McGregor himself declined to deny or confirm the report. He said Justice Minister Garson would have to make any statement.

Thousands Look On, Some Fainting As Churchill Honored

LONDON (CP)—Many people fainted in a crowd of 3,000 which jammed a London hall Wednesday to see author and statesman Winston Churchill receive a £1,000 prize given by a Sunday newspaper for the first two volumes of his history of the Second World War.

He told the audience that "writing a book is an adventure." To begin it was a "toy and an amusement. Then it becomes a mystery. Then it becomes a tyrant and in the last phase, when you are reconciled to your servitude, you kill the monster."

To readers he gave this advice: "It is a great pity to read works of great practical value hurriedly or at an immature period in your development."

To schoolmasters: "Be careful not to set famous books as holiday tasks to your pupils."

To writers and speakers: "We must preserve our language and see it is not unduly damaged by modern slang and adoption."

During the presentation, a middle-aged British artist, Mrs. Olive Muir, interrupted Mr. Churchill with a demand that he reply to a letter "telling the truth about King Leopold."

Churchill did not appear to hear the interruption. Mrs. Muir has been campaigning on her own initiative in Belgium on behalf of King Leopold III, now provisionally exiled, and has distributed 100,000 pamphlets.

The letter to which she referred was sent to Churchill in February by 68 Belgian generals asking him to "rectify" the account in his published memoirs of events which led King Leopold to surrender two weeks after the German invasion of his country in 1940.

REGINA (CP)—Mayor Garnet Menzies, heading a Civic Voters' Association slate, was re-elected for a second term in Regina's civic election Wednesday, defeating W. C. Beeching, an independent. The C.V.A. slate rode to an overwhelming victory over the first official C.C.F. slate in municipal voting.

LIKE MONEY FROM HOME—The postman is a very popular man around Community Chest headquarters, for with each call he brings donations from citizens misaged in the general canvass. Above, letter carrier Walter Mitchell delivers handful of mailed donations to Eric Wainwright, campaign director. Chest drive is still considerably short of its $140,000 objective. Those in charge are relying on persons who have not yet contributed to do so by mail. Address is Community Chest Campaign Office, Prince Robert House.

'Mum' Show Opens Tomorrow

The Hon. W. T. Straith, Minister of Education, will officially open the 'mum' show by the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society tonight at 8 p.m. It is sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club and all proceeds will go to Kiwanis charities.

The lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden makes an ideal setting for the riot of colorful blooms upon display. Tints range from delicate pastels to brilliant autumn tones among the hundreds of entries.

Cups and prizes will be presented by Don Smith, president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club at 8 p.m. Saturday, and later there will be an auction of chrysanthemums, conducted by Art Roberts.

There is a small admission charge, and the show will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Want Appointment Of City Manager

Unanimous approval of a resolution supporting appointment of a "general manager administrator" for Victoria has been given by the Greater Victoria Property Owners' Association, according to a letter to City Council from Harold E. Ker, association president.

Mr. Ker added that the association has suggested establishment of a number of polling stations in the schools, one in each large district of the city, for the civic elections.

The association also believes transportation to the polls should be provided by the city for aged people and invalids.

Motorist Fined $150

Mr. Justice James M. Cody sentenced Wilbert Drader to a fine of $150 following his conviction on a dangerous driving charge Wednesday.

The judge said, however, he would not suspend the license of the 60-year-old mailman. The jury reduced the original charge of manslaughter to dangerous driving after deliberating an hour.

Drader originally was accused of causing the death last May of 76-year-old Mrs. Eleanor Davern when his car collided with the one in which she was driving at Fort and Quadra Streets.

"A Chrysanthemum by Any Other Name, Would Be Easier To Spell"

DO YOU RECALL ME scribbling here many a time, how I raise "Mums" in my spare time? Incidentally I'm glad that "Mums" we DON'T sell, 'cause a chrysanthemum by any other name... would be easier to spell. Well... the show was held... out in Oak Bay, at the Municipal Hall... where your taxes you pay. But to that show... I... didn't consign, and so YOU saw... no plants of mine. NO... NOT ONE BLOOM... did I enter there, 'tho I tried ALL YEAR... to make this affair. But it wasn't MY fault... if mine wouldn't flower, my soil was cold... or was it... sour?? But I TRIED to do all that they had taught, even fed them warm water... in every pot. Even went so far... to gain renown, I covered my pots... with our Elderdown. Which made the G.F. good & mad, that warmer than her... they should be clad. "I sometimes think," disgusted she, "you think... MORE OF THEM... than U do of me. I could stand some fussing, & to B fed, you don't ever bring me... MY breakfast in bed." And speaking of beds... & bedroom sets, we've a new line... sure-fire bets. It's open stock, known as "Blonde Norwegian," the newest stuff in this here region. With you all... it'll strike a new chord, it's keen... it's cool... just like a fjord. The Mr. & Mrs. Chests... surely are nifty, especially the price... just 21.50. But... let's get back to the G.F.'s beef, & resume our story... another leaf. "Yes... every morn... to that greenhouse you go, & ALL I HEAR... 'will I make the show?'" As in there... you fuss and hold, that 'Duchess of Kent,' who's droopy and cold. Her leaves are all fading... she's skinny, too, & she needs support with crutches... "bamboo." "Now... DON'T TAKE ON SO," I tried to console, "think I'll get a stove... & a little coal. It's warmth they need, they're growing too tall, & I wish the gals... hadn't thrown that foot-ball. There's an awful draft... blowing thru, has any one I wonder... shown a 'blue'?" But I put off getting this extra heat, so the time limit... had me beat. But we went to the show... just the same, & marvelled at the whites... the yellows... the flame. The girls stood aghast... as we got inside, as they spotted Fred Richardson's... joy & pride. "Congrats, Fred... mine were too fickle, and to you too... Mr. Dave Nicol." We wandered about & NOW I was pleased, that mine were cold... & often sneezed. "Cause even... if just ONE... I had shown, beside all THESE... I'd disown. "D.A.D.D.Y." said Trudie, as she gaped at a mass, "we'd have won the prize... if the 'booby class.'" Yes... of course I was sad, but I'm over it now, I'll have my OWN show... & it'll be a WOW. As all over our house, in lacy bowers, "Merry Christmas to all," I'll SAY IT WITH FLOWERS.

Football, Hockey Leaders Should Crack Down On Playoff Squawking

By JACK SULLIVAN

Someone should write the music for the lyrics now being "sung" by the Ottawa and Montreal football clubs prior to their two-game total-point Interprovincial Union playoffs. The completed job probably could be entitled "We'll do it my way or we won't play."

It's an old refrain—the patient Canadian sports public which follows the "amateurs" heard it over and over last spring in the Allan Cup playdowns and final—the lyrics are well known. The music could be breezy and light, sort of a comic opera style, because that's the way the "song" should be treated.

Details of the Roughriders-Alouettes hassle have been hitting the sports pages the last few days with syllable-by-syllable descriptions of their public bout. Any one, hardened by similar wallings in the past, doesn't take it seriously—but it is annoying. If these clubs want to do a little haggling, why can't their club executives get together and do it in private? And why doesn't the Big Four executive step in and stop all this public washing of dirty linen?

"Amateur" sport—senior football and junior and senior hockey—now is big business. In many cases, their salary lists rival those of the out-and-out professionals, and there aren't many fans who will cry in their beads because one date or even the hour—in this football squabble isn't conducive to furious turnstile clicking.

ALLAN CUP WOES
There were at least two "we'll do it my way or we won't play" rhubarbs, in the Allan Cup play-downs and finals last spring. But the series was played through, and nobody was hurt—just a lot of face-losing by the people who rule the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

First, it was the Ottawa Senators and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association over an intermediate club called St. Joseph D'Almeida, senior B winners in Quebec. The Q.A.H.A. said the Senators must play the intermediate team in a sudden-death game or forfeit their right to meet Toronto Marlboros in the eastern final.

It was a "you will" and an "I won't" wacky piece of business for 24 hours—until a deadline set by the C.A.H.A.—and, you guessed it, Ottawa played St. Joseph and won.

Ottawa got past Marlboros okay and the C.A.H.A. ruled the four-of-seven final series, between Senators and Regina Capitals, would be played in Ottawa.

Everybody knows Regina screamed about the egg-shaped Ottawa Forum and demanded at least one game be played in Toronto or Montreal "or else."

Practically every member of the C.A.H.A. got in the act along with officials of both clubs and one game was played in Toronto and Senators won the cup. The C.A.H.A. backed down because a club official threatened to pull out if he didn't get his way.

We would like to see the reaction of the National Hockey League baseball's big time if any responsible club official tried to force a change in dates or rules—in public—to benefit his club. He wouldn't have a chance, which prompts the observation it is about time the Big Four—and even the Canadian Rugby Union—and the C.A.H.A. made their club executives wear long pants, too.

Casey Stengel Voted No. 1 Pilot Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, who hit the jackpot in his first year with New York Yankees after nine unsuccessful seasons as a National League pilot, is the major league's "manager of the year."

The grizzled veteran, who overcame many obstacles to lead the Yankees to an American League pennant and a world championship last season, was the overwhelming choice of the baseball writing fraternity which voted in the Associated Press poll.

Stengel nearly spread-eagled the field, grabbing 101 of the 116 votes cast. Only four other pilots received recognition with Detroit's Red Rolfe and Philadelphia's Ed Sawyer tied for a poor second at six votes apiece.

Blame 'Amateurs' For Race Fix At Rockingham Park

SALEM, N.H. (AP)—Amateurs with larceny in their hearts and a knowledge of the physical Geography of Rockingham Park were sought today as those concerned with "sponging" five horses in the seventh race here Oct. 24.

Most of those interested in seizing and prosecuting the tamperers, who pushed small sponges into the thoroughbreds' noses, are convinced there was no intended betting big coup as the wagering on the race was not abnormal.

It was pointed out, however, that the seventh race plays a part in the make-up of the figures used in the number pool in this area.

Sponges, about the size of a small rubber ball were thrust into the animals' noses.

Dr. H. M. Lewis, track veterinarian, was convinced "amateurs" were involved "because the sponges were obviously pushed up by a person's fingers."

The track vet explained a "sharpie" involved in such an illegal deed would use a probe. The sponging, designed to cause a horse to become distressed—particularly in a hard stretch drive—was discovered by Lyle Phillips who found a small blood covered sponge in the feed bin of his horse Seersucker which finished fourth in the race.

(The race was won by A. J. Ryan's Crisis which paid $136.00. Crisis also won yesterday's seventh, paying $18.)

AYR, Scotland (CP)—Hull Volants Wednesday night dropped the second straight game on their European tour, losing 4 to 3 to Ayr Raiders of the Scottish Hockey League. The Quebec club was blanked 2 to 0 in the opener of their tour Monday night.

Chicago Fan 'Forgives' Two Canadiens

George Grbich Plans No Action Despite 10 Stitches; Standings Shuffled

The Montreal Canadiens not only lost 4 to 1 to Chicago Black Hawks last night, but they saw two of their players carted away to the police station.

A Chicago fan whose scalp was nicked for 10 stitches by a swinging hockey stick laid assault charges, and Ken Reardon and Leo Gravelle were escorted to the house of George Grbich. They were charged with assault with a deadly weapon (a hockey stick).

But the fan, George Grbich said when the excitement was over that he wasn't mad at anybody and would not press charges.

The two players were released on $200 bonds signed by William J. Tobin, president of the Black Hawks, pending a hearing in police court Nov. 14. They caught the Montreal train with the rest of the team. Billy Reay, Canadiens' centre, was also taken to the police station but no charges were filed against him.

At Montreal league president Clarence Campbell said he had "no comment" to make until he received a report from referee Bill Chadwick on the incident.

The Chicago uproar was one of three games which revised the early National Hockey League standing. Toronto Maple Leafs were held to a 3 to 1 tie by New York Rangers, and Detroit Red Wings beat Boston Bruins 5 to 3.

That puts Toronto and Detroit in a first place tie, two points ahead of Montreal. Chicago is fourth, New York fifth; and Boston—for the first time in many moons—is at the bottom. With only seven or eight games for each team so far, however, only five points separate top from bottom.

FANS RIDE DEFENCE

At Chicago the Hawks were leading Canadiens 2 to 1 in the second period and the stadium fans were riding the Montreal defence hard. Grbich claimed that Reardon whacked him with his stick. Reardon said "somebody grabbed me by the nape of my sweater as I skated by and instinctively I swung my stick. I thought it had busted against the screen and I was the most surprised person in the world when I turned around and saw 'Tid' bloodied somebody."

"There should be better protection along the rinkside for players from fans," said Canadiens coach Dick Irvin.

In the rumour Reay was given a misconduct penalty. Referee Bill Chadwick wasn't available for comment, but Irvin said, "I guess he penalized Reay because he saw what he did and didn't see anything that went before."

Gus Bodnar, Roy Conacher, Bert Olmstead and Metro Prystai scored the Chicago goals. Grant Warwick getting the only Montreal score.

ROUGH PLAY

There was plenty of high-sticking and bumping at Toronto, and while 11 penalties were called, Referee George Gravelle let many go unchallenged.

Leafs led 1 to 0 in the first period and 3 to 2 at the end of the second. Pentti Lund tied the game for Rangers midway in the final period. Other New York goal-getters were Edgar Laprade and Don Raleigh. Ray Timgren, Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley scored the Toronto goals. Bentley's a picture effort with a clean corner shot after he had sparked a three-man rush on the New York net.

At Detroit the Red Wings' captain, veteran Sid Abel, scored three goals himself in the victory over Boston. George Gee and Marty Pavelich got the others. Boston's goal-scorers were Paul Ronty, Dave Creighton and John Peirson.

Rookie goalie Jack Gelineau of Boston had better support from his teammates than he's been getting lately. He had 26 saves while Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal stopped 32.

Saskatoon Quakers Threat For Ice Title

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers, loaded with a brand new set of imports, took a long time getting untracked in early season play but there's been no stopping them since they tasted the fruits of their first victory.

Looking nothing like the league doormat of other seasons, the revitalized Quakers ran their victory string to three straight here last night when they whipped the league-leading Calgary Stampede 4 to 2.

The win boosted Saskatoon to within two points of the second place Edmonton Flyers and widened to three points the breach between Quakers and the cellar-dwelling Regina Capitals.

With their team beginning to show signs of being a strong contender for the league title, Quaker fans flocked through the turnstiles for a record attendance of 5,300 last night.

THOMAS SCORES TWO

Cy Thomas, who performed last season for the University of Alberta hockey team after a brief term with Toronto Maple Leafs, banged in two goals for Saskatoon's margin. Singletons were notched by Chuck McCullough, former Cap pivot, and Cy Rouse. Veterans Doug Cairns and Bunny Dame accounted for the Calgary marksmen.

Quakers scored two goals in each of the first two periods to build up a commanding 4 to 0 lead by the time Cairns beat goalie Cliff Dobson for Stampede's first tally early in the third session. The work of Russ Dertell in the Calgary nets prevented Saskatoon from making a runaway of the contest.

Stampede ended their Saskatchewan road trip with a game at Regina Friday.

Minors Set Player Selection Meeting

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The minor leagues' first annual player selection meeting will be held Dec. 5-7 in Baltimore, Md., the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues announced Tuesday.

George M. Trautman, minors president, said clubs in the various classifications will be entitled to select player contracts in accordance with an order of priority.

Last year 199 players were advanced in the minors under the former selection method which was by letter or telegram to Trautman. Trautman said he hopes the use of the selection meeting this year will stimulate the progress of a greater number of players.

Arrow Girls In Cage Upset; Students, Tillicums Triumph

Chinese Students, Tillicums and Arrow Furniture scored victories in last night's triple cage bill at the High School gym.

The Student senior B men's squad came from behind a one-point 23 to 22 deficit at half time to rout Senators 45 to 37 in the feature game on the card.

Taking an 18 to 7 lead at the intermission, Tillicums junior boys coasted to a 33 to 18 triumph over Chinese Students in a junior boys clash. Lawrence Veitch with 10 points was high man for the winners.

Arrows intermediate B girls provided the most startling upset of the evening when they hung on to a 17 to 9 half-time lead to edge the senior B Comets 34 to 31 in a women's preliminary.

Thelma Turner of the losers topped the scoring parade with 14 points. Chris Boyd with 10 and Betty Purich with eight paced the winners.

Lloyd Manorum Hurt In Car Accident

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Lloyd Manorum, fourth leading money winner among American golf pros the last season, suffered a broken shoulder Wednesday in a Los Angeles automobile accident.

George Schnetter, manager of the Professional Golfers' Association tournament bureau, announced the injury here.

Schnetter said the injury will keep Manorum out of tournament play for at least two months.

Chicago Cubs Will Go With Youngsters

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Cubs plan to stand or fall with a youth movement during the 1950 baseball campaign, manager Frankie Frisch said today.

"Charlie Grimm (vice-president, Jim Gallagher (general manager) and I have been talking over possibilities of the team," said Frisch, who succeeded Grimm as team pilot during the 1949 season.

"We've decided that our smartest move is to string along with young fellows.

"There seems little chance of making any deals for established players. So we'll try to develop our own youngsters, and I think we can do it."

Royals Maintain Hex Over Cougars

New Westminster Royals certainly aren't in any way adverse to scoring goals, especially against the Cougars.

Last night, at the Royal City, the second-place P.O.H.L. sextet slammed nine pucks past goaltender Jerry Fodey as the Cougars went down to a 9 to 7 defeat, their third straight at the expense of the Royals.

In three games between the two clubs, Royals have scored 26 goals with Cougars notching 11.

However, the locals gained some solace from the defeat when they electrified a slim New Westminster crowd with a third-period outburst that saw Royals' netminder, Jerry Cotnoir, pick three pucks out of the twine in the space of 32 seconds.

Royals spotted Cougars the lead in the first stanza when Eddie Mazur picked up a pass from Eddie Marinneau and beat Cotnoir at the 8:42 mark. Then the Royals took command and before the period had ended were on top at 3 to 1. Five goals in the second period to a pair for the Cougars put the Royals into an 8 to 3 lead.

Cougars strike

With the final period just past the halfway mark, Cougars struck—and struck fast. Joe Evans rapped one home from Bernie Strongman at 10:09. Strongman whipped in another 12 seconds later on a double pass from Georges Bougie and Eddie Wares and at the 10:41 mark Bougie scored to complete the offensive game of the evening on a play set up by Strongman and Evans.

With two minutes to play Wares threw five forwards on the ice but the move backfired on the first play when Kenny Ulyot broke into the clear and counted Westminster's ninth marker.

Cougars' final tally came at the 19:20 mark when Strongman scored his second of the night. Even though defeated, Cougars maintained their northern division third-place rating.

IRONMEN, PENGUINS WIN

Vancouver Canucks dropped a 3 to 2 decision to the Ironmen at Seattle and Portland Penguins trounced Muzz Patrick's Rockets 6 to 3.

In the southern division the league-leading San Francisco Shamrocks scored twice in the third period to nip the Los Angeles Monarchs 4 to 3. Monarchs on their way home following a tour into the Pacific Northwest have now lost nine straight.

Cougars return home tomorrow night for a two-game stand, meeting Tacoma Friday and Vancouver Canucks Saturday.

DOBOHOY HERE

Business manager Fred Hutchinson announced today that centre Eddie Dohohoy had arrived in town and will be in uniform for the Cougars at tomorrow night's game.

Vic High Squad Adds To School Rugby Lead

LEAGUE STANDINGS

Victoria High	W. L. T. P. A. P.
Oak Bay High	1 0 0 0 0
Esquimalt High	1 0 0 0 0

Victoria High School's rep rugby squad can be assured of at least a tie for the Interhigh Senior Rugby League crown as it shellacked the winless Esquimalt club 23 to 0 in a game at Central Park yesterday.

The second-place Oak Bay High fifteen has to win both remaining games in order to tie the city squad for the honors.

Play was fairly even for the first 15 minutes of the tussle with the ball around the mid-field strip. Dick Pette opened the scoring for V.H.S. when he took a pass from Al Marks and crossed the line near the corner. Bill Peterson failed to convert from the difficult angle.

Following the kickoff, winners began to surge ahead and Earl Barrons plunged over to make it 6 to 0. Vic High added eight additional points before the interval. Alan Blair and Bob Toews crossed the line and Peterson converted the latter's effort.

The second half was almost halfway through before winners added to their already imposing lead. Marks rufed across the line to make it 17 to 0, and minutes later Barrons notched

Danny Lewicki-To Play With Marlboros

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Danny Lewicki, central figure in a year-long dispute with Toronto Maple Leafs over the controversial National Hockey League C form, has been released to Toronto Marlboros, a Leaf amateur farm club, it was announced here today.

Lewicki, suspended last month by the N.H.L. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association from organized hockey because he refused to sign a professional contract with the Leafs, will line up with the junior Marlboros club.

his second score of the game. Peterson closed out the scoring just before full time when he carried two Esquimalt defenders across the line and fell on the ball.

Coast Ball League Makes Plans For Little World Series

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, said Tuesday that negotiations are underway for a post season series involving the P.C.L.'s champion and either the American Association or International League pennant winner.

If the plan goes through, Rowland said, the coast loop Governor's Cup playoff will be abandoned. It probably will be any way, he added, because of public apathy.

The proposal calls for the coast team to play on representative either of the two eastern circuits or the survivor of an elimination series between the two.

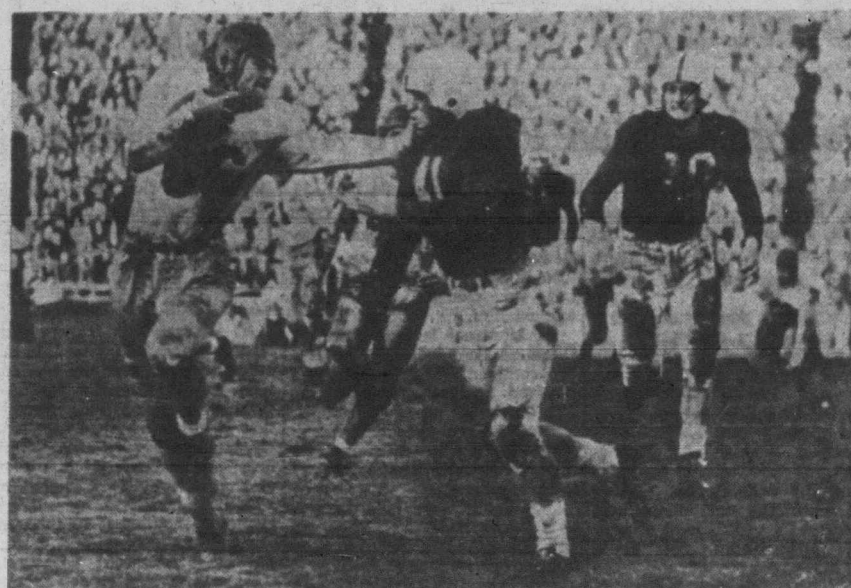

Rowland said he hopes to reach an agreement before the P.C.L. directors meet here Nov. 10 for their annual winter pow-wow.

Named to the committee were: Mrs. R. Fanthorpe, Mrs. F. McPherson, Miss B. Haigh, Miss N. O'Connell and Mrs. R. Wakelin.

Medicine Hat Ice Squad In Comeback To Bolster Lead

Medicine Hat Tigers, licking the wounds of an humiliating 12 to 3 setback administered by Lethbridge in their previous outing, came up with newly sharpened claws in their home den last night to edge the Native Sons 3 to 2 in a Western Canada Junior Hockey League game.

The triumph gave the Bengals a three-point, first-place lead over Native Sons and Moose Jaw Canucks, who dropped a 4 to 2 verdict to the last-place Pats in Regina. The win was Pats' first of the season.

Tigers played it close to the vest all the way, holding the high-scoring Lethbridge forwards in check. They moved into a 2 to 1 lead in the first period, held it through a scoreless second session and matched one Lethbridge goal in the final frame.

Len Hayel got the winner for Tigers, the others going to Bobby Holmes and defenceman Eldor Thomas, import from Edmonton. Guyle Fielder, setting the pace in the league scoring race, and Art Stone blinked the red light for Native Sons.

At Regina, Pats spotted Moose Jaw a 1 to 0 lead in the first period before going ahead 2 to 1 in the second and battling in two more in the third without a reply from Canucks.

Sports Round-Up

SECRET PLAY
The Washington and Yates High School football teams were near the end of their game in Houston, Tex., last week-end when the P.A. announcer advised: "Stand by for a special announcement immediately after the game." . . . The 9,000 fans were left wondering until the final gun sounded, then the announcer's voice boomed out again: "This is the special announcement. Washington has played 12 men on the field the last two minutes of the game."

RUGBY ON ROLLERS
Leo Seltzer, who maintains a tremendous enthusiasm for his brain child, roller derby, says the "blocking" feature which provides most of the roughness and excitement, came into existence when Bill Corum and Chick Meehan saw some informal roughing in a race at the old New York Hippodrome and decided it resembled football.

Curling Club To Incorporate Under Societies Act

The Victoria Curling Club will seek incorporation under the Societies Act, it was decided at a general meeting of more than 100 enthusiasts in the Chamber of Commerce last night.

The club plans to sell a $100,000 debenture loan for the proposed new building. The site under consideration is near the Memorial Arena from which the curling rink would draw refrigeration. This would necessitate the installation of a new machine in the arena.

The club building could also serve as a summer skating rink, it was pointed out.

Complete list of officers as named at the organizational meeting of the club a few weeks ago was confirmed at last night's meeting. J. Emerson Neely is president, Max Zabel vice-president, C. L. Wells secretary, E. D. Bullock, W. J. Hyde, W. C. Dunstan and Harold Fox directors.

Next meeting will be held Nov. 23.

To Elect Six Trustees To School Board This Year

There will be six vacancies to fill on Greater Victoria School Board at this year's elections and so far only one trustee has given a reasonably positive indication that he will seek re-election.

Although there are six vacancies, there will be only four trustees completing their two-year terms this year. The other two vacancies have resulted from the death of Miss Ida Tuck and the resignation of Trustee M. P. Paine. This means there will be election of four trustees for two-year terms and two for one-year terms.

The four trustees whose terms expire this year are W. P. Jeune, Saanich; Maj. R. H. Green and A. W. Trevett, Victoria; and J. A. de Bourcier, Oak Bay. There are no vacancies for Esquimalt on the board this year.

Trustee Jeune, who has just returned from a visit to Britain, was not quite certain he would seek re-election but said "The chances are I will."

Trustee de Bourcier said "I think I'll know in a week."

"I haven't given it a thought yet," said Trustee Green.

"I've not made up my mind," said Trustee Trevett.

Reporter Describes Conditions In Town Of Yellowknife

The 13-year-old northern centre of Kellowknife is no longer a "boom-town," but is stabilizing itself into a small, progressive city.

This was the impression gained by Jim McKeachie, Victoria Times reporter, who told members of the Victoria Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel today of conditions in the town on the north shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories.

Mr. McKeachie was aboard Yellowknife Transportation Company's Mv. Yellowknife Expeditor for the historic voyage from here to Great Slave Lake via the Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea, Arctic Ocean and Mackenzie River.

TUMULTUOUS WELCOME

"We received a tumultuous welcome complete with Board of Trade dinner, for the citizens of Yellowknife are anxious that their town become known as it really is by people 'outside,'" the speaker said.

He told of $8,000 and $10,000 bungalows similar to many in Victoria being built — which showed people are there to stay — not just to make a stake and get out.

"Though having its own little peculiarities because it is a new town and transportation costs are high, it is nevertheless a fine little city. Included in those peculiarities is the fact that youngsters drink soft drinks from beer bottles—since there are lots of empties available and it would cost too much to bring in regular soft drink bottles," Mr. McKeachie commented.

He outlined the voyage of the 160-foot converted landing craft from this port to Yellowknife. It was the first time such a trip had been made, he noted, recalling that the ship was fortunate in having good conditions and the Arctic ice pack 30 miles at sea.

Workers Sought For Community Hall At Cordova Bay

An appeal for additional members to turn out for work on the new community hall, in order to bring the project to the desired stage before winter, was made by Harry Savage, president of Cordova Bay Community Club, at a meeting in McMoran's Pavilion.

Satisfactory progress of the junior club was reported by Bernie Rogers, Charles Howarth, chairman of improvements committee, reported B.C. Electric officials had surveyed the district of Cordova Bay with a view to improving lighting in the area.

Don Galey offered to instruct all those wishing to learn old time dancing. Vic Goddard will show colored slides of the recent Boy Scout Jamboree at Ottawa Nov. 9. Annual Christmas party has been tentatively scheduled for Dec. 21. Mrs. Joan Mortimer was initiated as a member.

Mrs. K. Lewis reported a total of $293 collected by her committee for the Community Chest.

Further negotiation meetings will have to be scheduled between the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange and the bargaining committee of the local Hod Carriers' Union.

At an exchange meeting Wednesday night, a proposed agreement submitted by the union was rejected. Among other things, the union is asking for an increase in hourly pay.

The union's membership embraces the majority of construction laborers here.

B.C. Urged To Pay Hospital Premiums For Some Veterans

The B.C. Command, Canadian Legion, is opposed to a "means test" for veteran groups, to determine whether or not they should be relieved of payment of hospital insurance premiums.

The Legion feels that wives of war veteran allowance recipients, recipients of widow's allowance and recipients of dependent parents' pensions should be classed with old age pensioners, for which the government pays the hospital insurance premiums.

This was reported today following a meeting of legion officials with Health and Welfare Minister George S. Pearson.

In support of its contention, the legion's legislative committee claimed the allowances paid to a single veteran or widow was less than that paid old-age pensioners.

The committee refuses to accept the opinion that the Dominion government should be responsible for the hospital insurance payments and said the war veteran allowance legislation had relieved B.C. from payment of social service allowances to many veterans.

Man, 99, Does Not Feel Old Yet

"I don't feel like living to be old."

How many times have you heard someone say that? Middle-aged folks are great ones for saying it. Young people, too, express those sentiments every so often. Even children use that expression.

But yesterday those words came from a grand old man of 99. And he wasn't joking.

John Frederick Turner, who celebrated his 99th birthday last Oct. 11, is looking forward to reaching the century mark but doesn't want to grow old.

What he means by "old," is that he doesn't want to live so long that he will no longer be able to putter around his house doing his daily chores or no longer be able to take his part in conversation on world affairs. Worse still, he wouldn't want to be so old that he couldn't go to church every Sunday.

John Turner has always been an active man, and for that matter, still is. He wants to remain that way.

A furniture maker by trade, he stayed in business until he was 90 and then retired to make tables and other such articles at home "just to keep his hand in."

15 CHILDREN

Born in Paddington, a district of London, which at the time was called Bayswater, Mr. Turner remained in England until he was 57. He married and had 15 children, 12 of whom are still living. His eldest daughter is now 73 and his youngest 48.

The family today, is scattered about the world. He has one son and one daughter in Victoria. His son is Murray Turner, 1908 Jubilee Avenue, and his daughter, Mrs. Gladys Cook, Elk Lake.

Still in good health, Mr. Turner attributes his longevity to "hard work, abstinence from excess in eating and drinking, and the wife of God."

Mr. Turner, who doesn't smoke, advises young people of today not to start. "I've got some sons that are everlastingly smoking," he chides. "But they're too big now to do as I tell them."

WORKED FOR UNDERTAKER

Recalling 20 years he spent with a London undertaking firm, he declares: "I've seen the worst of drinking. Many's the man I've buried who died from delirium tremens."

Living with his daughter at Elk Lake, Mr. Turner still chops wood and helps with the chores. He still goes to town to do the shopping and attends regularly Sunday services at Central Baptist Church.

He still writes to his friends in England and Prince Albert, where he lived 30 years after coming to Canada, and manages to keep abreast of world news.

He explains that trouble today between Russia and other countries really stems from the fact that Russia wants free access for its ships through the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. "And that's what the Crimean War was fought over when I was a boy," he says.

Mr. Turner remembers his mother sewing flags for soldiers going to the Crimean War and remembers a soldier uncle returning from the conflict with frozen feet.

"I hope we don't have no more wars," Mr. Turner says. "And there's an old man's wish which everybody hopes will come true."

John Frederick Turner, still active though going on 100.

Very seldom does Mr. Turner ever take any alcoholic beverages.

SEVERAL CHANGES FOR OAK BAY COUNCIL AS ELECTION APPROACHES

There will be quite a change in the Oak Bay Council following municipal elections Dec. 10. Reeve R. A. Wootton and Councillor George Murdoch are retiring, and Councillor P. A. Gibb has announced he will resign his seat to run for the reeve ship.

A by-election will be necessary to fill the seat left vacant by Mr. Gibb, who still had a year of his two-year term left.

But there will likely be one face in the same place—Councillor Johnny Johnson announced today he will run again. He has been on the council for 16 years.

Terms of Councillors F. A. Robinson and R. B. Wilson do not expire till next year.

To date there have been no indications as to who will contest the seats to be vacated.

Nominations close Dec. 1.

TRYING AGAIN—Another candidate for City Council has appeared. He is Harold E. Ker, master mechanic and electrical engineer, who announces he will be a candidate for council in the Dec. 8 elections. Mr. Ker, an unsuccessful candidate in 1947 and 1948 civic elections, is president of the Greater Victoria Property Owners' Association, and has declared himself in favor of appointment of a city manager if council is willing to grant that official sufficient power "to do a good job."

Named To Solve Mainland Dispute

A three-man conciliation board was appointed today to assist Hunting-Merritt Shingle Division of the Canadian Forest Products Ltd. and the Shing Weavers Local 2802 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in reaching a collective agreement, the Labor Relations Board announced today.

Chairman of the board is Col. D. R. Blair. D. B. McLeod is the nominee of the employer and George Bengough of the union.

The parties cannot agree on the union's requests which include a 15-cent-an-hour increase across the board, a daily grant, increased annual vacations, statutory holidays, union shop and pensions plan.

The dispute involves 200 employees.

Bakery Dispute

The Labor Relations Board today announced appointment of W. T. McLaughlin as conciliation officer for a dispute involving three Victoria bakeries and the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America Local 267, representing 75 employees.

The dispute is over wages. The bakeries involved are Canadian Bakeries Ltd., Weston Bakeries Ltd. and McGavin Bakeries Ltd.

27,662 Tons Herring Caught This Season

B.C.'s herring season to last week-end had totaled 27,662 tons, 3,654 tons more than to the same date last year.

Of the catch 94 tons have been frozen, and 2,768 cases canned. Bulk of the remainder has gone to reduction plants which have turned out 4,339 tons of meal and 693,805 gallons of oil.

Salmon canneries to-date this year have turned out 1,421,293 48-pound cases. Catches have been above last year but slightly short of those for 1947.

Government Action Expected Soon On Taxing Of E. & N. Timber

Premier Byron Johnson said today that the government's action as a result of a favorable decision in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway belt timber would be determined after an opportunity has been afforded of studying the written reasons for the judgment.

The decision was announced Wednesday in London by the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The highest court of the nation found that no contract between British Columbia and the railway existed over the grant of a 40-mile-wide strip of land on either side of the railway. This decision involves the government's right to tax the timber resources on the railway belt.

Mr. Johnson said that the decision marked a very important victory for British Columbia.

"I feel that the interest of the people in this regard will in the future be protected by this important judicial decision," he said. "It certainly will rectify an anomaly which has existed for so many years."

"I would also like to take this opportunity of congratulating my colleague, the Hon. Gordon Wismer, upon the success of this case. This marks the second important victory in recent times for the Attorney-General. I have in mind his success in connection with the freight rate hearings."

Mr. Johnson was referring to the removal of the mountain differential in freight rates, ordered last summer by the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Assault Charge Denied By Sidney Man On Trial

Glen Pearson, Sidney, charged with attempted rape, denied in Assize Court today he assaulted a 27-year-old married woman, whom he described as a "friendly neighbor." The trial opened Wednesday afternoon before Mr. Justice James M. Coady.

Pearson, a powder worker, told the jury it was the woman who made advances to him in his car on the roadside, near Sidney, Sept. 17.

He said there was no quarrel and both returned to Sidney apparently on good terms.

Pearson testified on his own behalf after the prosecution concluded its case shortly before noon.

Earlier the complainant told the jury Pearson offered to take her into Sidney in his car late in the afternoon. She said the accused drove down a lonely road and began making unwelcome advances which resulted in a struggle.

She said she was criminally assaulted.

Pearson drove her into Sidney and let her out of the car, she said.

The woman testified she was so frightened that she ran immediately to the home of a friend.

James J. Proudfoot, counsel for the accused, asked the witness if she had complained of the incident to her friend.

She replied she did not, but returned soon afterwards to her home.

Mr. Proudfoot asked her why she did not run immediately to the Provincial Police Station which was located not far from the home of her friend.

She replied she was so nervous and upset that she only thought of going to her friend's home.

The complainant said she told the story to the wife of the accused.

Mr. Proudfoot asked the woman if Pearson had threatened her in any way.

"No sir," was the reply.

A verdict is expected late today. R. D. Harvey, K.C., is counsel for the Crown.

Nile Sands Hiding Story of Old Christian Civilization

By BRIAN HODGSON

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UP)—The unwritten story of an ancient Christian civilization in Africa may be buried beneath the desert sands around Karima and Dongola on the banks of the Nile.

Disturbed only by the hooves of occasional gazelle, this wilderness is believed to conceal the history of a people who populated the area thickly until 1340 A.D.

The people built cities, had their own particular culture and kept an outpost of Christendom flourishing in the depths of the Moslem-controlled Middle East for nearly 800 years.

An amateur archaeologist has set out with camels and Sudanese bearers to survey the area at his own expense. He is Terence Gray, a wealthy Irishman, resident of the south of France.

His purpose is to collect as many "clues" as possible about this civilization and then to report to P. L. Shinnie, archaeology commissioner for the Sudan government.

Gray's finds, though not sensational, have convinced Shinnie that a full-scale scientific expedition should be sent out to the Karima area.

"It will fill in a blank chapter of history if such an expedition is financed," Shinnie said.

If the expedition is not sent, it is likely that the "blank chapter" never will be written. The Egyptian government is almost certain to start construction of a new dam in the locality soon, and the site of Shinnie's proposed investigations will be flooded by the waters of the Nile.

The archaeology commissioner has drawn up a detailed plan for a large expedition, armed with equipment for digging deep enough to fold back the desert from the remains of temples and burial grounds which he feels certain lie under the sands.

It is believed that the Christian population of this extinct nation were Nubians. They were converted by missionaries of Greek extraction who were sent by the Empress Theodora of Constantinople, in 540 A.D.

Theodora was at one time a harlot dancing girl, but became a devout and active Christian after her marriage to the emperor. Constantinople, or Byzantium, was at that time the capital of the eastern half of the split Roman Empire.

It is amazing, Shinnie said, to realize that, while the western world was besieged by the forces of uncivilized barbarians, Theodora's missionaries were able to reach the Sudan and found the Christian community.

The Christian civilization is believed to have been finally over-run in the middle of the 14th century by Moslem forces from the north. No massacres are known to have taken place, and the reason for the gradual degeneration and final disappearance of the population of the area is another point which Shinnie wants to clear up.

Subject for discussion at the Y.M.C.A. Citizens' Forum tonight in the "Y" Mural Room will be "How Should Our Children Be Taught About Sex." The local group will discuss the subject following the CBC broadcast which commences at 8. A health nurse will be in attendance to answer problems pertaining to the subject.

The DOCTOR

Says:

SCIENCE NEEDS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT NEURITIS AND NEURALGIA

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Neuritis means an inflammation of a nerve or of nerves which is accompanied by pain and tenderness, disturbances of feeling or sensation, and a certain amount of muscular wasting. Neuralgia merely means that there is pain in the nerve or nerves usually without the presence of inflammation.

Because either neuritis or neuralgia can come from many different diseases or conditions, the problem is always to try to find the cause in each case. They are, for example, fairly frequent in diabetes, especially if the condition has not been controlled by suitable diet or insulin.

Nerve pains can come from vitamin deficiency, especially the lack of vitamin B-1. One type of neuritis is common among the victims of chronic alcoholism.

Perhaps at least part of the reason for this is that such persons substitute alcohol as a food in place of a properly balanced diet containing enough vitamin B-1. Whether this is true or not, this type of neuritis can be much improved or even relieved entirely in many cases by giving enough of this vitamin.

Except in the simple cases, neuritis and neuralgia are often difficult to treat satisfactorily. In some cases the pain is so severe and so long-lasting that human nature is strained to the uttermost to stand it. Relief has sometimes been obtained by killing the nerve by injecting alcohol or by cutting the involved nerve surgically. Of course, this does not get at the bottom of the trouble but it is occasionally necessary to bring relief from intolerable pain.

Question: Will eating a lot of sugar candies and sweet stuff in the home cause sugar diabetes in children and adults?

Answer: People who are overweight and eat excessive quantities of sweets and starches are more likely to develop diabetes than others. They do not always do so, however, and it is probably incorrect to say that such eating actually causes diabetes.

An unlocked rear window was used by the burglar who entered the home of Mrs. W. Hamilton, 384 Superior Street, between 7 and 9 Tuesday evening when no one was at home. Apparently looking for money, the thief left empty-handed. Nothing has been found missing. A ransacked bedroom dresser drawer indicated the home had been entered.

British War Games Reveal Lack Of W.U. Co-operation

By WILLIAM ROSS

LONDON (CP)—The usual kind words were spoken in Germany when in mid-October the British Army concluded its war games for 1949.

But enough candor filtered through to show that the War Office and the Military High Command of Western Union are not thinking along the same lines.

On the heaths north and south of Paderborn, Germany, where Hitler trained his Panzer divisions for the abortive 1944 Ardennes offensive, the 2nd Infantry and 7th Armored Divisions, with United States, French, Belgian and Norwegian battalions under command, had a fortnight-long workout which culminated eight previous weeks of campaign training. Altogether 40,000 men were involved.

U.S. EXERCISES

A month earlier the Americans, using 112,000 men in broad, 100-mile-long sweeps through Bavaria, had completed their exercises — which apparently were more in line with Western Union thought.

The British formations fought on fronts which at no time exceeded six and a half miles. They had air superiority. Their headquarters were isolated, defended localities. Their weapons, except the new Centurion tanks, were those of the last war—and so was their fighting. Experts said it would have been first-rate for 1945's conditions.

Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny, Commander-in-Chief Land Forces of the Western Union, speedily brought the exercise into perspective once it was over. He emphasized to officers that they would be the leaders of a force at most 10 divisions strong. They would be expected to hold western Europe against a Russian invasion force which had no obstacles to cross to reach them.

Almost at the same time, in Washington, Gen. Omar Bradley told Congress that Russia has even now an army of 2,500,000 men, an air force of 600,000 and at least 14,000 aircraft.

"You are fighting as wealthy people, on narrow fronts. You should fight as poor people on broad fronts," said de Tassigny.

In the last war Gen. Eisenhower had numerical superiority against an enemy committed at the same time on the eastern front. He also had air superiority. No such situation would confront the troops holding Europe against a threat from the east.

NO AIR SUPERIORITY

Initially the Western Union divisions would have to fight along 20-mile fronts, the commander said, without air superiority, and headquarters, officers and men "must get used to living in a state of insecurity."

The Americans' manoeuvres indicated their training to be based on this type of fighting. The British forces were fighting the winning stage, which Western Union chiefs feel is wrong training for the type of warfare that would have to lead up to it.

One British general, asked during the exercises about the role of the army in atomic warfare, replied: "Nobody can say. But rest assured that the army will be needed for the first tenth and the last tenth of the time; the rest is anyone's guess."

Hollywood Learns U.S. President Not Much Of Movie Fan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's another worry for Hollywood—President Truman is not much of a movie fan.

Through an official source, I submitted a list of questions about the President's entertainment habits. Here, in part, is the reply:

"I hate to disappoint you, but there is little I can tell you about the President's movie habits. The reason is that he is not very much of a movie-goer."

"He likes to see a newsreel now and then in the movie projection room of the White House. Usually present with him are a few members of the White House staff."

From reader Don McAnnally of Toledo come some pertinent remarks on barriers against tourist visitors by film studios:

"Industry has learned that it is good public relations to open its doors to visitors... the fact that doors are opened, that visitors are wanted and welcomed, creates favorable public reaction—the very thing which most studios want most, especially now, to build attendance and profits. It seems to me that the studios are taking the wrong approach to what could be a great trade builder.

"I have no authority and little influence in the film industry, but if I had some of either I would bend every effort to open the gates to all tourists and other visitors... such a program would cost little, maybe no more than what it costs to keep people outside. The guards who now block the way might well be used as escorts on conducted tours."

Child's Toy Causes Sidewalk Accident

Fred Blakeney, 45, of 2525 Empire Street, was taken to Jubilee Hospital Tuesday night by city police to be treated for abrasions to the hip and face sustained when he fell on View Street east of Douglas Street. Police said the cause of the fall was apparently due to Mr. Blakeney stepping on a child's toy on the sidewalk.

Noodles, Hot Bath Cure Colds In Japan If Roast Oranges Don't

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

TOKYO (UP)—The best cure for a cold, thousands of Japanese will swear, is to climb into a bath tub full of hot water and leisurely eat a bowl of noodles.

Of course, thousands of other equally sincere Japanese will tell you that the "noodles-and-tub" remedy went out 50 years ago and will insist that nothing can compare with a roasted orange for really knocking out a bad cold.

The real fault with the "noodles-and-tub" remedy, according to a qualified source, is that it is apt to become habit forming.

Tanaka-san, the neighborhood charcoal dealer, is the "qualified source." He does a good side business prescribing home remedies.

"You feel so good when you are in the tub eating noodles," Tanaka-san said, "that you are likely to be tempted to order a bowl of noodles whenever you go to the bath house, even if you don't have a cold."

The roasted orange cure, Tanaka-san continued, goes like this:

"Take one orange. Put it on the fire and roast it until its outer skin is burned almost entirely black. The orange then is eaten—charred skin and all."

This remedy has the good quality of not being habit forming. As a matter of fact, Tanaka-san says, it is apt to taste "rather bitter."

Other "recognized" Japanese cold cures include drinking hot ginger tea, hot orange juice or hot radish tea and then taking a hot bath.

Tanaka-san firmly denied that the hot bath lobby had anything to do with the promotion of the remedies.

He admitted, however, that one of the most popular cures is one which makes simple use of sake, the world famous Japanese rice wine.

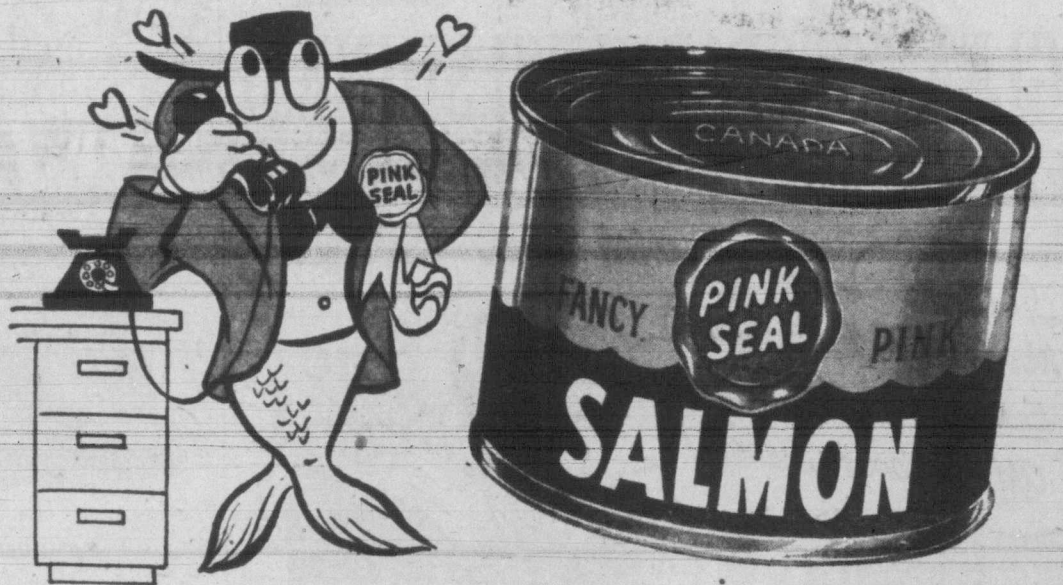

The cure is called "Tama-gozake." It is hot sake with egg.

"About a pint of sake is put in a pan and heated," Tanaka-san explained, "and then the yolk of one egg is put in it and thoroughly beaten. It makes a good egg-nog and becomes an excellent cure for colds." He paused briefly. "I rather like it myself," he acknowledged thoughtfully, but did not say whether it is habit-forming.

THE HOPE-PRINCETON HIGHWAY

WITH THE completion of this inter-provincial highway, a page of history dating back 100 years is completed . . . a monument to those hardy pioneers who, under incredible difficulties, blazed these crude trails which are the background for the broad, fast highways of today.

This road is a pledge of things to come—a promise of a British Columbia Highway system equal to the best on the Pacific Coast. It provides scenic beauty for the traveller and a fast ribbon of transportation for the produce of the verdant interior to the markets of the coast.

Officially opened on November 2nd, the Hope-Princeton Highway is the largest project ever undertaken by the Provincial Government in the construction of a modern-type road. It is a credit to the spirit of British Columbia—a remarkable achievement on the part of the engineers and construction companies, and will be a valuable asset to all the citizens of this province.

Senior Member Of Guggenheim Mining Family Dies At 86

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—Solomon R. Guggenheim, 86, senior member of North America's great mining family, died here early today at his Long Island estate, Trilora Court.

The multi-millionaire copper king was active in the family business until three weeks ago, when his health suddenly began to fail.

His wife, Irene, was with him when he died. His eldest daughter, Countess Castle Stewart, was reported flying home from Britain.

Guggenheim was the senior member of the firm of Guggenheim Brothers, and was the last survivor of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, who started the family in the mining business in North and South America.

He also was a generous art patron, and had been a collector since his marriage in 1895 to Irene N. Rothschild, a young art follower.

As head of the family firm, Guggenheim was a director of a number of metals corporations, including Kennecott Copper, Braden Copper, Pacific Tin, and the Nevada Northern Railway Company. He also was one of the major stockholders in the huge Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

Two grandsons, children of the Earl and Countess Castle Stewart, were killed in the British Army in the Second World War. Their third son, Viscount Patrick Stuart, is heir to the title and now is with the British Army in Malaya.

Vancouver Youths Questioned By Police

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police today were questioning a teen-aged gang from Vancouver's Grandview district in connection with Halloween incidents which left two youths burned seriously.

The two were pulled from a burning park board shack. One of the youths, 17-year-old Norman Purdy, is in serious condition. Donald Looyens, 17, also was injured.

First reports said the two were forced into the shack, which was ignited after it had been doused with gasoline.

Snead Fires 68 For Stroke Lead In Pinehurst Golf

PINEHURST, N.C. (UP) — Heading into the second round of the North and South Open golf tournament, 109 other golfers had as their target today the familiar lean figure of slandering Sammy Snead, the hotshot hillbilly from White Sulphur Springs, Va.

Snead, the 1949 P.G.A. champion, was out in front of the pack by virtue of his four-under-par 68 in the opening round.

But there wasn't much daylight between Sammy and his rivals. Just one stroke behind were Johnny Bulla, the air pilot from Pittsburgh, Pa., and dark-horse Ted Kroll of Philmont, Pa. Three players were just two strokes behind at 70, five more were at 71 and six were at par 72.

Hope-Princeton Road Opening Brings 5,000 To Allison Pass

By Victoria Times Representative

ALLISON PASS SUMMIT—Five thousand British Columbians in an estimated 2,000 motor cars, buses, trucks and motorcycles swarmed on this lonely Cascade Mountain summit Wednesday afternoon to witness the formal opening of the $12,000,000 Hope-Princeton Highway.

The most elaborate highway opening show ever projected by the provincial government attracted far more British Columbians and tourists than the most fantastic dreams of those who planned the show.

Streams of motor cars began converging on the highway early in the morning and long before the official caravans from both approaches arrived on the scene hundreds of motorists were already waiting to drive over the smooth ribbon of blacktop which stretches from Hope 83 miles east to Princeton and another 70 miles further east to Kaleden, near Penticton.

At a road block at Canyon Creek, at Mile 23 east of Hope, a mile and a half long string of autos was lined up before the official caravan arrived. Several scores of cars had already got through the block.

On either side of scene of the highway opening ceremonies here cars of the visitors were stretched for miles. More than two hours were necessary to untangle the ensuing traffic jam.

WEATHER FINE

Although planners of the opening ceremonies had prepared for the worst—a possible blizzard—and a hastily erected roof covered the gold-painted gate which Premier Byron Johnson unlocked, the weather was ideal for the occasion. No doubt hundreds of Vancouver citizens took advantage of the warm sunshine and their weekly half holiday to drive for the first time over new highway.

But scores of visitors came from much farther. Cities as far east as Nelson and governments as distant as Ontario and Washington were officially represented. Among the strings of vehicles were noted cars bearing license plates of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Washington, Oregon and Texas.

The opening festivities got under way shortly after 2 at a gate which had been erected across the highway at this 4,400 foot summit for the occasion. To one side a small grandstand had been erected on which the official guests sat.

PROUD DAY FOR B.C.

Works Minister E. C. Carson, who acted as chairman, stepped up to a battery of seven microphones and told the thousands of visitors that "today is a very proud day for the Department of Public Works, for the government of British Columbia and for the people of British Columbia."

He recalled the building of the Hope-Princeton Highway had originally started as a dream in the minds of some persons more than a century ago. He said British Columbia owed a great debt of gratitude to the administration of former Premier John Hart which had set the policy for the construction of the highway.

The engineering difficulties encountered in the building of the highway, he said, had equaled those found anywhere on the continent.

He introduced various engineers and contracting company representatives who had played major roles in the construction of the highway paying particular tribute to Harry C. Anderson, the works department's chief engineer and chairman of its highway board, whom he described as the sparkplug of the department.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb noted that while seven years ago the provincial government appropriated $2,700,000 for maintenance of the province's 22,000 miles of highways, today the government was spending no less than $17,000,000 annually on road maintenance plus $10,000,000 on new construction.

He said that only nine months ago engineers had gone to work on the section here which was then under 14 feet of snow.

TO AID ECONOMY

"The whole economic structure of southern British Columbia will be regenerated by this highway," he said, noting that the highway would also prove a scenic attraction not only for thousands of British Columbians but for other thousands from south of the border.

The Hope-Princeton Highway, he said, was a part of the provincial government's $200,000,000 road building program on which engineers were plowing ahead and from which results were being shown in every part of the province.

Premier Byron Johnson, expressing the government's appreciation for the interest shown in the highway as evidenced by the crowds attending the ceremony, recalled that when first projected the cost of the highway had been estimated at $2,750,000. Actually the highway had cost $12,000,000.

HUGE COST WORTHWHILE

"After driving over the highway," he said, "there will be few people who will not agree that irrespective of the cost it has been worthwhile."

"I am sure," he continued, "that thousands and thousands of cars from Washington will travel over this highway and rub shoulders with you and I. Nothing will do more to promote international understanding."

He said the highway was a tribute to the fine civil service of the provincial government and great credit was due the Legislature which had voted the sums for its construction.

Mr. Johnson then proceeded to formally open the highway and dedicate it for the use of the people of British Columbia by unlocking a golden padlock with a gold key and swinging wide the gate.

Prospector, Age 84, Rides First Car

ALLISON PASS SUMMIT (Special)—Wednesday was a great day for Charles Bonnevere.

For 54 years he has been prospecting in the hills east of Hope and for 54 years he has seen the necessity of a highway over the Cascade Mountains to link Hope and Princeton and other points in the southern interior. Wednesday his dream of that highway was realized and the old-timer was on hand to pay tribute to those who made the road possible.

With the co-operation of the officials planning the opening show here, Bonnevere walked right up to the gate with his packhorse to congratulate Premier Byron Johnson and others. With him he carried three orchid corsages, which he had probably found in a florist shop, not "them thar hills" where he has prospected for so many years. He presented the flowers to Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Carson, wife of the works minister, and Mrs. Anscomb, wife of the finance minister.

MOUNTAIN SCENERY

The scenery of the Hope-Princeton is mainly mountains. They are magnificent in themselves but they lack the variety which makes the Malahat Drive so famed.

From Skagit Bluffs one looks down from the Hope-Princeton Highway on a green river valley, while above tower the mountains. But this scene, perhaps the most breath-taking between Hope and completed and in time mosses and plants will cover the man-made cliffs left unclothed by the road builders and the weather will darken the starkly naked rocks.

Parts of this highway have not yet weathered a winter and for years to come rocks loosened by the frost and the spring freshets are going to come tumbling down on the highway.

About seven miles on the western approach to the summit is still unpaved. It seemed firm and smooth to the first motorists passing over it but the hundreds of vehicles which later Wednesday passed over it turned its gravelled surfaces to washboard and mud.

Motorists will have to contend with this until the next paving season in the spring.

Such is the opinion of this reporter, who has not traveled east of the summit. Both Victorians and mainland citizens attending the opening ceremonies here Wednesday for the Hope-Princeton Highway concurred with this opinion. Those who had traveled the entire length of the new highway agreed that there was nothing east of here to compare with the Malahat scenically, although on the eastern sections the highway passes several lakes, including Yellow Lake, whose scenic attractions apparently cannot be scoffed at.

The Hope-Princeton Highway follows river courses for almost its entire length. From the highway the motorist sees many marvelous streams, sometimes splashing over their stony beds, sometimes flowing gently in deep clear pools.

The scenery around Goldstream on the Island Highway is frequently brought to mind while traveling the Hope-Princeton between Hope and the summit.

A huge fire some years ago swept over the forests through which the Hope-Princeton passes for several miles. Unfortunately this too is reminiscent of the Island Highway. The debris of logging operations is also in evidence on the Hope-Princeton Highway but to a lesser degree on the western side of the summit than on the Island Highway.

Although much of the Malahat Drive is comparatively new construction, and two short sections are currently under construction, fewer ugly wounds and scars of construction are noticeable on the Malahat Drive than on the drive to Allison Pass from Hope. Driving up here Wednesday the great machines which were used in the construction of this road dotted the highway like burned-out tools of war scattered over the battlefield.

Malahat Finer Scenically Than New Interior Highway

By DAVE DRIVER

ALLISON PASS SUMMIT—Residents of Vancouver Island will have to admit that the Hope-Princeton as a highway is superior to their Island Highway but they can successfully argue that the Malahat is superior scenically to this summit.

Although the Hope-Princeton climbs 4,400 feet in the 35 miles out of Hope, compared to the Island Highway's 1,200 feet in a dozen miles out of Goldstream, the Hope-Princeton at no place has a grade equalling that of the Malahat Drive.

The Hope-Princeton is 24 feet wide for its entire length. Older sections of the Malahat do not boast this width which has become the current standard of the provincial works department. The curves of the Hope-Princeton seem less sharp than those of the Malahat Drive.

The Hope-Princeton is smoother, in all finished sections, than many parts of the Malahat Drive. The Hope-Princeton is better marked and signed.

The Hope-Princeton, at present anyway, has no telephone or electric power lines to mar the beauty of its scenery. It has no service stations on its entire 83-mile length. It has but one resort, "Pine-Woods," a few miles east of this summit, which when completed will outshine anything on the Island Highway for its entire length.

But the Hope-Princeton does not have the magnificent vistas which have made the Malahat Drive and other sections of the Island Highway famous.
